Seek Public Aid In Resolving Town Parking Problems

By Sue Aucella Deacon

For the third consecutive year, the Planning Board will ask annual town meeting to do something about the long-bemoaned parking problem in downtown Andover — this time, the planners say, with a proposal that's new and different from their unsuccessful attempts of the past.

Also different this year: The planners are determined to win community support for their new downtown parking proposal before town meeting convenes, starting with a public discussion on Tuesday, Nov. 13.

That will be the first in a series of public hearings, according to Chairman Margaret Bradshaw, because the board is willing to revise their parking proposal until town officials, downtown merchants and townspeople agree that it's workable.

"It's new, it's different," Bradshaw said of the plan this week. "It offers the town some flexibility, offers expanding businesses some flexibility — and still provides enough parking in town."

Nancy Jeton, principal planner in the Community Development and Planning department, last week told the TOWNSMAN that "people from many different groups spent a lot of time" drafting the proposed new parking requirements. The draft proposal is the work of the planning board's Central Business District (CBD) Subcommittee.

"I'd like to emphasize that it's different from the other years," Jeton said. "It's a very well-thought out proposal and it deserves people's attention."

The planners left the last two town meetings convinced that, despite the defeat of their parking articles, there is indeed a parking problem in downtown Andover — "the age-old question," Jeton said.

"The problem revolves around loopholes" in the current laws that let businesses expand without providing new parking to serve new customers/employees, she explained, and the planners want to close those loopholes.

This year, however, the board is "looking at the positive side of it as well, at ways to create more parking and positive options."

Perhaps the most innovative of those options would allow downtown businesses to buy parking credits, in lieu of providing new parking spaces; their money would go into a special town fund for maintaining town parking lots and building new lots.

That is one of four options included in the new proposal. Downtown business would have their choice of:

- providing new parking spaces on their own site;
- purchasing parking credits in lieu of providing new spaces (the option mentioned above);
- reducing the number of spaces they're required to add by obtaining a special permit from the planning board;
- or obtaining a special permit from the planning board to build their re-

Takes Command At West Point

Cadet Anne R. Mackie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Mackie, 9 Nancy Circle, Andover, recently began a four-month term as a regimental cadet activities officer, thereby achieving one of the highest positions in the cadet chain-of-command at the U.S. Military Academy.

Mackie was named to the position because of her superior academic and military performance as a cadet.

During the academic year, the 4,400 cadets are organized into a brigade which is further divided into four regiments. There are three battalions in each regiment and three companies in each battalion. As the cadet activities officer for the Third Regiment, Mackie coordinates the extracurricular activities for more than 1,000 cadets.

Mackie graduated from Andover High School in 1981. Her studies are concentrated in aerospace engineering and she plans to graduate in May. A Dean's List student, Mackie is a member of the women's gymnastic team.

Named To Community Service Board

Nancy B. Brother of Sagamore Drive will join the Community Services Committee, with the selectmen's approval.

The board Monday night voted unanimously (with Gerald Silverman absent) to approve the town manager's new appointment to the community services committee.

Brother will fill a vacancy left by Peter D. Washburn on the seven-member committee, which is chaired by Kenneth DeBenedictis.

Licenses, Permits Approved

The main item of business on the Board of Selectmen's agenda during an hour-long meeting at town offices on Bartlet Street Monday night was the approval of a number of licenses and permits.

Jean Malios, doing business as J.M. Canteen of Salem, N.H., was granted a common victualler license to operate a canteen truck in Andover, while Service Systems Corp. of Buffalo, N.Y. was granted a common victualler license for use at the Andover Companies on North Main Street.

The Pike School received approval for a one-day all-alcoholic beverage license for 6 to 9 p.m. Friday, Oct. 26, for its boutique show.

New England Telephone and Telegraph Co. and Mass. Electric Co. were granted permission to remove one pole from Old River Road, approximately 270 feet northeast of Laurel Lane. (Two requests from N.E.T. & T. to lay underground conduits at Park Street and Frontage Road were tabled because there were no telephone company representatives present to answer the board's questions.)

Bay State Gas Co. received permission to excavate in Haverhill Street, Greenwood Road and Princeton Avenue to install gas services; in Hemlock Road to install a new main into Pond View Place; and at 15 Carlisle St. and 199 Andover St. for emergency repairs (which were done last month).

And, acting as sewer commissioners, the board approved a sanitary sewer connection for Industrial Materials Technology, Inc., on Ballardvale Road.

Open House Programs At Schools

Parents of Andover's secondary school students will be meeting with teachers and administrators at the town's two junior high schools this week and at Andover High School next week.

Last night, at 7 p.m., Doherty Junior High School was visited by parents. And tonight, at 7:30 p.m., the West Junior High will be the scene of shortened classes in which parents may participate and a general discussion about the programs offered for sixth, seventh and eighth graders at the Shawsheen Road school.

The high school open house is set for Wednesday, Oct. 24, beginning at 7 p.m., with a discussion for all parents in the Collins Center, after which parents will have an opportunity to meet with their children's teachers. The high school is located on Shawsheen Road.

Scouting Around

"Sharing Scouting Experiences" will be the theme for the Fall Camporee this weekend, Oct. 19, 20 and 21, for all scouts of Northern Essex Council at the Methuen town forest. Two Master Challenges will be held for the best patrol each troop can muster on Saturday morning. Challenge 1 is a quicksand rescue and challenge 2 is a pancake flip. Each challenge will test the skills of the patrol.

In the afternoon all scouts will participate in four experience areas: rope work, map and compass, knife, ax and bow saw and camping.

Saturday evening will be topped off by a campfire.

Scouting teaches scouts many skills that will last through their entire adult life.

"High Adventure" trips are one of the more exciting aspects of scouting. Four such trips were taken by Andover and North Andover troops: white water rafting in the Baxter State Park area in northern Maine; a trip to Bermuda during February vacation; Disney World for two weeks; A West Point Camporee with 5,000 other scouts from the northeastern United States.

Scouts Climb Mountain

On Oct. 8, scouts from Troop 76 and their leaders, Jack McAllister, James Galvin and R. Greg Aeder, left Andover for a trip to Mt. Kearsarge.

The group reached the summit after a climb of an hour and 45 minutes, finding the first snowfall of the season on their arrival.

The scouts passed their five-mile hiking skill award by climbing the 1100-foot mountain.

AIM Offers Series

Adventures In Music invites the public to meet a space pirate, a princess, a friendly elephant and a rock star named Bach at its original musical programs this season. The performances, under the musical direction of conductor-arranger Peter Mansfield, will be given on weekend afternoons at the Reading Memorial High School auditorium, as well as at high schools in Lexington, Waltham, Marlborough and Acton.

Brochures describing the series have been distributed through Andover's elementary schools. For further information, contact Hilda Willard or Stephanie Krauson of Andover.

"The Revenge of Splatgort" opens the season November 11. In this continuing space fantasy of the Magic Helmet, a young earthling and his alien friend take off from earth and travel to distant galaxies. But, after a space battle, they crash land on a magic planet. Will they be able to repair their spaceship in time? Can they stop the space pirate, Splatgort, from taking over the universe? This fantasy adventure by Justin Locke features Steve Aveson of WBZ-TV's "Evening Magazine" as Splatgort and Ronald Kmiec as the alien who plays a nine-foot Falcone concert grand piano.

The Pickwick Puppet Theatre makes its eighth return visit to AIM in "Sleeping Beauty" in January. More than 65 life-sized rod puppets pantomime this fairy tale to Tchaikovsky's well-known ballet music. The largest of Pickwick's productions, "Sleeping Beauty" was first performed at Lincoln Center's Philharmonic Hall. The puppets are operated from below the 22-foot-wide stage with long rods. At the conclusion of the story, the puppeteers move out front to demonstrate how the puppets work.

"The Story of Babar" in March features guest narrator Frank Avruch, who appears regularly on channel 5's "Great Entertainment" and "Sunday Open House." Avruch tells this modern class tale of the young elephant Babar, his adventures in Paris, and his triumphant return to the forest as King of the Elephants. Babar's story is illustrated by slides of children's original drawings, projected on a large screen. The professional AIM orchestra plays music specially written for this story by the French composer Francis Poulenc.

Finally, in May, AIM offers a tribute to J.S. Bach's 300th birthday. In an original story by Justin Locke, Bach is frustrated because his music is not popular. He hires a promotional agent, who possesses the secret power of time-travel. The agent brings Bach to a modern recording studio. Can Bach's "old-fashioned" preludes and fugues make today's pop charts? Will well-tempered break dancing catch on? AIM's orchestra accompanies dancers from Baroque to break. James David Christie, who plays the role of Bach, is the Boston Symphony Orchestra's organist. He was the first American ever to win first prize at the Sixth International Organ competition in Brugge, Belgium.

Adventures In Music is a non-profit organization which creates and produces professional concerts of high artistic and educational value, carefully designed to capture the imagination, not only of children, but also their parents. AIM is funded in part by the Massachusetts Council on Arts and Humanities (a state agency) and the Massachusetts Arts Lottery Council (through Acton-Boxborough, Boxford, Billerica, Burlington, Lexington, Lincoln, North Reading and Reading).

The first college credit course in television was offered in 1951 at Marquette University in Wisconsin. Fourteen students registered to learn about programming, coordinating, writing, staging, directing, acting and administrative duties.

Lecture On Central America

A lecture planned for next Thursday may help answer questions for those Andover residents unsure about how they will vote on the upcoming referendum question on aid to Central America.

Photojournalist James Harney will present his account of life in El Salvador on Thursday, Oct. 25, beginning at 8 p.m., at the McQuade Library on the Merrimack College campus, in North Andover.

A reporter on Central America since 1970, Harney spent six weeks in El Salvador in June and July when he traveled rural areas in guerrilla-controlled zones of the war-torn country.

Sponsored by Merrimack's Central America Solidarity Association, the lecture is free.

Merrimack economics professor Charles Tontar and Tom Meyers, of Andover, were involved in getting the referendum question on the Nov. 6 ballot. Meyers said the question will ask voters of the Seventeenth Essex District whether or not they favor withdrawal of military advisors, troops and installations from Central America and application of funds, now supporting those persons and material, to economic aid for the region and for use in domestic programs here in the United States.

Harvest Auction At St. Robert's

The evening will feature a silent auction, dinner and dancing. Seating will be at tables of eight. For tickets and information, call St. Robert's rectory.

Rx for those middle-distance blurs

Some people have difficulty in reading gauges on an auto instrument panel or making out cards laid out on the table across from them. Others have trouble finding things in the refrigerator, and so on. But these same people have no trouble reading the small type in baseball box scores and stock market quotations, or in watching television.

The problem is that the bifocals they are wearing just are not doing the job, and either a trifocal or a progressive no-line lens is called for to take the blur out of middle-distance viewing. It's needlessly frustrating to put up with this sort of thing. What's needed is a new examination by an eye doctor. Then bring your prescription to a Guild optician, who is an expert in making more complicated lenses such as these fit your exact needs. We invite you to bring us your tough prescriptions.

A Team Effort Responds To The Problems Of Day Care

By Sue Aucella Deacon

Baby-boomers are producing a "boomlet" of their own, mothers are out in the work force — and parents are looking for someone to take care of their small children every day. At the same time, the people who provide professional child care are — to a lesser extent — looking for children who need their care.

In the Merrimack Valley area, both parent and provider can now turn to Child Care Circuit, a new Andover-based non-profit organization that will connect the two, finding day-care providers for families, and clients for day-care providers.

An information, training and referral service, Child Care Circuit (CCC) is a "grass roots, community-based" operation, according to Sheila Balboni, executive director of Community Day Care Center of Lawrence. Sheila and Marlies Zammuto, director of the Mother Connection, are helping to coordinate the new service, with support from a number of community organizations.

"We're finding that the supply of day care is far exceeded by the demand for day care," Ms. Balboni says; the demand for care of infants and children under age two is especially great.

Child care "sounds like such a simple service," she adds, but in reality finding good day care "becomes very complex. And when a family needs child care and can't find it, that family is in crisis."

Since opening for business in the basement of the Andover Baptist Church in July, the new service has been answering 25 to 30 telephone calls each week from parents seeking child care information. Despite the fact that Child Care Circuit has done little to promote itself in its first months, the service has already helped about 150 families find child care, and compiled detailed information on nearly 400 local child-care providers for its files.

Community Day Care Center of Lawrence runs four day care programs, each with hundreds of names on waiting lists. Center staffers have been offering parents day-care referrals informally for quite some time, Ms. Balboni notes.

"We were being asked to help parents out, and were spending a lot of hours each month on the phone, looking for openings with day care providers and acting as consultants to people."

The Mother Connection, a non-profit group for mothers and their families, was also fielding lots of calls from parents seeking day care, and Ms. Zammuto, too, began to realize the need for a special referral service.

Independently, the two groups reached the same conclusion, Sheila explains: "We needed a way of formalizing the service, of doing a better, more efficient job."

Community Day Care Center and the Mother Connection began working together last October. After talking with child care providers and parents to decide if there truly was a need for a service like Child Care Circuit, they concluded that there was indeed "a tremendous need in this area," Marlies says.

They emphasize that the Circuit is still a "real team effort" with no formal structure, no paid staff and no consistent funding. (They've been relying on grants and fees for services.) CCC is guided by a policy advisory board made up of child care providers, parents, local employers and representatives of several community groups, "all working together," Marlies says.

Child Care Circuit volunteers staff the telephones in the basement of the Baptist Church on Central Street (a space shared with the Mother Connection) from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday; from 3 to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday; and from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Monday evenings. (The Circuit also has an answering machine ready to record messages at any time.)

A total of about 13 volunteers have devoted "a tremendous amount of volunteer hours" to the effort since July, Ms. Zammuto says, with up to three volunteers on duty each day.

Telephone referrals and counseling, while an important part of the Circuit, are "only one of three functions that are integral to Child Care Circuit," Ms. Balboni says.

Its other two goals are to help develop new sources of day care in the area, including day-care centers and family day care in providers' homes; and "community education," to convince everyone from state officials to Andover employers that child care is "not just a family issue and a social issue, but an economic issue as well."

CCC volunteers began the first stage of the service — collecting data on local child care providers — in early June. The Circuit's files now offer "centralized information," Marlies says, on nearly 400 Merrimack Valley child care providers, all of them licensed by the state Office for Children. These include family day care providers, nursing schools, day care centers, and extended day-care and after-school programs.

Through telephone interviews, Circuit volunteers compiled basic information on each provider: where they're located, how much space they have, their rates, descriptions of their programs, and whether or not they have openings for new children.

This is the information the Circuit has to offer when parents call in search of a day-care provider: Its files are CCC's bridge between provider and parent. But the service is not a placement agency, Ms. Zammuto emphasizes. CCC gives parents a list of at least three providers, but makes no recommendations; the parent must take it from there.

When parents call the Circuit, they're asked to describe their needs: how old is their child? what hours of the day does the child need care? what location are they seeking? what rates can they afford?

Some two-thirds of all callers are looking for someone to care for an infant or a child under age two in their own homes. (That's something of a fantasy, Sheila notes; few providers come to the family's home.) Recently the Circuit's been receiving calls from expectant mothers, too — with the typical maternity leave only six to eight weeks long, pregnant women who want to continue working know they've got to plan ahead.

CCC counselors usually spend 15 to 40 minutes on the phone with a caller, then check their provider files and call the parent back within half an hour with a selection of at least three names.

It's then up to the parent to contact the providers and choose one — or, later, they may decide to call back for additional names. The fee for the telephone referral service is $10, which includes as many calls and as much help as each parent needs.

Parents who want more help with finding a day care provider can come to the Circuit for a one-hour counseling session with Ms. Zammuto.

During these consultations, she discusses their needs, explains the basics of searching for good child care, and gives parents a packet of literature on finding and using child care (which includes, for instance, a telephone checklist for points to cover in an initial interview with a provider). The fee for this consultation, which can be held before or after a telephone referral call, is $50.

To meet its second goal of encouraging more child care in the Merrimack Valley, Child Care Circuit also offers consultations to people interested in becoming day-care providers — how to obtain a state license, for instance, and how to set rates.

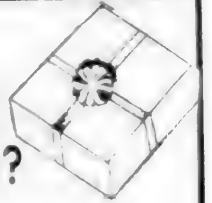

The Circuit is planning two workshops to be held before the end of the year, Sheila says: one on starting a day care center, and another on becoming a family day care provider, taking children into one's home.

In addition, the organization is collecting statistics on local child care needs to help potential providers understand what kinds of services are needed.

Providing child care is "really a terrific self-employment opportunity," Marlies notes. "Becoming a family day-care provider is a very viable way to be able to work in the home." Some parents who have called seeking care for their chil-

State Sen. Buell Faces Challenge From Gloucester Democrat

By Susan Rand

The Democratic challenger hoping to wrest incumbent Robert Buell's state senate seat away from the three term legislator is willing to quit the job he now has and represent the First Essex and Middlesex District, something he chides his opponent for not doing.

A 36 year-old antiques dealer from Gloucester, William Squillace is challenging Buell for his senate seat in a district which includes Andover precincts six, seven and eight. Squillace and Buell were unopposed in the September 18 primary election where Republican Buell scored 917 votes from Andover voters, getting 190 blank ballots to Squillace's 858 Andover votes and 447 blanks. District vote totals show Squillace with 12,453 votes (out of a total of 19,446 ballots cast), and Buell winning 11,964 votes (from a total of 15,163 ballots cast).

Besides his duties in the State House, Buell works in a Boston insurance business where, he told THE TOWNSMAN, his wife handles the majority of the work. The senator said that he probably puts in a 60 hour week at the State House and spends less than ten hours at the insurance business.

"I poke my head in occasionally," said Buell. "My opponent says I spend too much time in the insurance office."

His work week in Boston includes a full day in his senate office, something Buell said few other legislators can say they do. Fridays are his days to catch up on constituent work, the senator said.

If he is elected, Squillace told THE TOWNSMAN, he will close his antique shops in Beverly Farms, Magnolia and Essex and work full-time as a senator.

"The people in this district have got to be aware of who is representing them in the State House," Squillace said, adding "particularly when he (Buell) submits legislation with members of the insurance industry. And what he can't do his wife does, she sells insurance too."

This race, like many other political races this fall, has as an issue whether or not the candidates should accept campaign donations from political action committees, or PACs, as they are commonly known. As they do on many issues Buell and Squillace differ on taking PAC money, with Squillace denouncing his Republican opponent for accepting PAC money and promising not to accept any himself.

Squillace charged that many of Buell's contributions are connected to his insurance business.

"Most of his money comes from PACs, realty boards, state employee unions," said Squillace of Buell's donations. The Democrat said he plans to run his campaign on about $30,000, half of which he now has.

But Buell's estimation of Squillace's campaign war chest is much higher. Buell told THE TOWNSMAN that his opponent will try and outspend him, assured that that will mean victory over Buell, who estimated he will spend between $15,000 and $16,000 on this senate race.

"He said he knew how to beat me," Buell said of Squillace, "he'll spend more than me, around $50,000 to $60,000."

Buell said that he had accepted PAC money in his fight to retain his senate seat in 1982. He has narrowed his acceptance of PAC funds to only three groups this year, he said, including a donation from a group of state technical workers who call themselves MOSES, an acronym which Buell couldn't decipher. Another contribution came from the the State Police Association of Massachusetts, or SPAM, and the final donation, a check for $50, came from a real estate PAC, said Buell, but he isn't sure of the name of the group.

"That snuck by us somehow," Buell said, "I don't know who arrived on that ticket," he explained, saying that the donation was for a ticket to a fundraiser. "I would not have kept it, frankly, I would have sent it back but (I said) what the heck and deposited it."

Buell said that he didn't think the $50 PAC contribution would have a lot of influence on him, as those opposed to PAC contributions claim they do, since he didn't know who it came from.

For a Republican in the state senate, Buell's relationship with Senate President William Bulger, a Democrat, is something of an anomaly. The senator from Boxford explained that Bulger has been fair with the minority party in the senate, letting Republican minority leader Sen. John Parker, of Taunton, make the committee assignments for the seven Republicans in the Democrat-dominated legislature.

Buell's perception of Bulger's rein in the senate is at odds with Squillace's idea of how things run at the State House. If he is successful in his bid to take the First Essex and Middlesex senate seat away from Buell, Squillace's rules reform positions won't make him a favorite of Bulger's. Bulger is being challenged for the senate presidency by Watertown Democrat George Bachrach, someone Squillace didn't want to say he would support—yet, adding, "I would not support Billy Bulger. You just can't buy and sell these people like he's been doing. The only way to change anything is to get new people in there."

Squillace said the senate rules as they now are written allow Bulger to assign committee chairmanships and office space to senators, something that he feels puts legislators in a "catch-22" situation.

"Bulger has the power to control these people by office assignments and committees," said Squillace. "That's not Bulger's fault. That's the way the rules are. We need to take the exclusive power away from Bulger and give it to a committee of Democrats and Republicans."

Squillace charged that Buell should be leading the reform of senate rules, which, he said, when a Democrat is in the senate president's seat would seem to stifle a Republican. But, the candidate said, Buell is "a go-along type of guy."

"He really doesn't have a voice," said Squillace of Buell. "The only way he can get along is to go along with the leadership and they will throw him a bone once in a while."

But Buell said that he gets along very well with Bulger and the other senators, Democrats and Republicans alike. He said Bulger's leadership challenge differs greatly from House Speaker Thomas McGee's battle with George Keverian for control of the state representatives. Unlike McGee's stripping Keverian of his powerful leadership position in the house, Bulger wouldn't do the same to George Bachrach, Buell said, adding "Bulger is not a dictator."

Squillace criticized Bulger's attendance as the guest of honor at a fundraiser Buell held, adding that the Republican senator received a $100 campaign contribution from the Democratic Senate President. But showing up at a colleague's fundraiser is part of being a senator, explained Buell, "I get invited to theirs and they come to mine," he said.

Buell did say he was surprised to find that Bulger had left a personal check for his campaign. But, the senator said, it isn't that unusual. He has had other Democrats contribute or work for his campaign.

Buell said he characterized himself as a "fiscal conservative." He has worked to cut money out of state budgets, and considers his position as ranking Republican on the Ways and Means Committee an important committee assignment. He also sits on the the Rules and Transportation Committees.

Taxes don't need to be raised, Buell said, instead spending has to be brought under control. His other priorities include property tax abatements of $500 for all citizens aged 70 and older, as a way to help them afford to live in their homes. He said he also wants to help elderly persons enter health maintenance organizations, known as HMO's, which Buell said they are often closed out of because of their age. There should be more parity in the financial aid to school districts, Buell said, explaining that schools don't have to be good to get a lot of money. Andover receives a minimum 15% in state reimbursement while Lawrence gets back over 100%.

"You can't equate high costs of education with high quality," Buell said. "There are no financial rewards for school committees doing a good job, only those doing an inferior job like Lynn and Boston."

Issues at the heart of Squillace's campaign are rules reform in the senate, no new taxes, and a plan he hopes to push through the Senate, if elected, that would limit time in the Massachusetts Senate to eight years, or four terms, for each senator.

"I don't think the job should be a career," said the candidate. "We need to eliminate the pockets of power which lead to the abuse of power and introduce some enthusiasm."

Squillace said he was "absolutely against" raising taxes, instead, he suggested that state spending should be frozen at this year's level and inspected to see what can be cut out. He also said he would like to investigate the quality of water in the district, having read that cancer rates in the area were on the increase. And he would like to serve on the Senate Education Committee where he could use the knowledge he has gained as a member of the North Shore Regional Vocational School District. He is now in his fourth year on the school board, where he has been chairman of the budget committee.

A 1956 Boston University graduate, Buell was an United States Air Force control tower operator in the Korean conflict in Germany and France. He jokingly likened his tower work to being a politician, saying that he was "always listening to someone talking to you while you are talking."

After Korea he went to work for Aetna Life insurance, a job he had for four years which was followed by eight years with a Boston insurance agency where he sold general insurance.

Before winning his senate seat Buell was a State representative for ten years, from 1968 to 1978. He represented the Twelfth Essex District which was composed of his hometown of Boxford, Lynnfield, Middleton, Georgetown and Topsfield.

Buell's decision to run for the senate came when William Saltonstall, of Manchester, decided to retire from the seat Buell now holds. Saltonstall was asked, by members of his family, not to run in 1978 because of the then-new financial disclosure laws, said Buell. So in '78 Buell ran against Rockport Selectman Nicholas Barletta in the Republican primary, beating him, and then defeating Wilmington Democrat Robert Kane.

In 1980 Buell was challenged by William Gustus, a Democrat from Reading, who he beat by about 10,000 votes, he said. Stephen O'Leary was Buell's opponent in 1982. The First Essex and Middlesex Democrat who represents Andover as a state Democratic Committeeman, O'Leary, who is from North Reading, lost to Buell by some 7,200 votes, the senator said.

Each race for the senate has produced what Buell said was a "viable opponent," and in this fall's campaign Buell said he thought Squillace was giving him a lot of competition in Squillace's home town of Gloucester, the only city, and largest of the the 16 towns and one city in the district.

"He's giving me a hard time in Gloucester," said Buell of his opponent. "But most people haven't heard of him. The reaction (is) that a lot of people don't think I have an opponent."

Squillace has been thinking a long time about being a member of the state government. He left a job as assistant director of human resources in Alexandria, Virginia in 1979, where he also worked evenings and weekends for a master's degree in public administration from the University of Northern Colorado's Center for Special and Advanced Programs in Washington, D.C. His next job, had he stayed in Virginia, would have been director of the human services agency, something that Squillace said would be "limiting." So, he sold his home and moved back to Gloucester, where he had grown up.

"I've always been good working with people and the real place to be is in policy, making decisions," he said of his decision to enter the senate race. He announced his candidacy last January.

The sixteen towns and one city included in the First Essex and Middlesex District besides part of Andover are Boxford, Essex, Georgetown, Gloucester—the only city in the district, Hamilton, Ipswich, Manchester, Middleton, Newbury, North Reading, Reading (five precincts), Rockport, Rowley, Topsfield, Wenham and Wilmington.

Andover has two state senators. Republican Sen. Robert Buell's First Essex and Middlesex District includes precincts six, seven and eight in town as well as 16 other towns, listed in the article above, and the city of Gloucester. Sen. Patricia McGovern, a Democrat, represents Andover precincts one through five as well as all of Lawrence, Billerica and Tewksbury.

Candidates Address Chamber

At the October directors' meeting of the Andover Chamber of Commerce, President Frank Orlandella introduced incumbent candidate for the 17th Essex District Representative Susan Tucker and her opponent Susan Poore. Mrs. Poore stated that this was the first time she and Rep. Tucker were together at an event on behalf of their candidacy.

Rep. Tucker mentioned the good news is that Massachusetts has been rated second in the country as economically healthy, but the bad news is that four important major bills are pending that must be resolved. She also spoke of the tax burdens having been decreased significantly from 17.5 of every dollar to 14.5, with the national average at 15 percent. Mrs. Poore agreed that the business climate is good, however, in her opinion it has nothing to do with the leadership but with the keen and vital interchange of free enterprise.

The question of classification came up and Tucker stated that legislation was being proposed to give small business some exemptions, but in the meantime, they are grouped in one classification. Mrs. Poore said the focus has been on industry but is now turning to residents, she asked, "can business sustain the increase or will they be driven out as the exchange of profit will be transferred from one owner to another?" She feels the classification imposed this year is for the long term financial picture of the town.

Each candidate wrapped up the discussion with the reasons why each is seeking office to represent the 17th district.

Another portion of the meeting was dedicated to proposals to the planning board regarding parking requirements in the zoning bylaws. Richard Chapell and Stephen Stapinski identified the changes that were proposed with the thought that some requirements may be too stringent. A continuation of the subject of proposals will take place at the next meeting on November 1 with Andover's postmaster, Antonio Mendoza, as guest speaker and Town Manager Kenneth Mahony.

Cactus

The cactus likes strong sunlight, extreme heat and very little water. In fact, it's been called the plant that "thrives on neglect."

Water cacti only about once every seven to ten days and even less during the winter when they're not actively growing. The soil should be allowed to dry out between waterings.

Their native climate forced cacti to find ways of surviving desert temperatures and scanty rainfall. They can store water in their stems, which often are covered with wax, bristles or silky hair to further lessen water evaporation.

The cacti family includes approximately 2,000 species varying in size, shape and form. All have areoles, cushion-like structures on the stems from which leaves, spines and bell-shaped flowers grow in a variety of colors.

Cacti must be repotted when they grow too large for the tiny pots in which they often are sold.

Use a sweet, non-acid soil containing one-third sand, one-third loam and one-third humus. Or, if using a general house plant mix, simply add an equal amount of sharp sand (mason or cement sand) for a well-drained soil.

The History Of Locomotives

The steam locomotive was invented by Richard Trevithick of England in 1804. Colonel John Stevens built the first steam locomotive in the United States in 1825. This locomotive, an experimental model, ran on a circular track at Hoboken, N.J. The first steam locomotive to be placed in regular passenger and freight service in the United States was built in New York City and went into service on Christmas Day 1830.

The steam locomotive ruled as king of the rails until the introduction of the electric locomotive in the late 1800s. Thomas Edison tested his first model in service in 1895 by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad in Baltimore. Diesel locomotives were introduced experimentally in 1923 and were in regular service by 1925.

AHS Band Plays State Spirit March

The Andover High School band will be stepping out to the "Spirit of Massachusetts March," a new musical composition commissioned by the Massachusetts Department of Commerce and Development.

The new quick-step march is based on the melody of the successful Spirit of Massachusetts radio and TV commercials broadcast in the spring by the Department of Commerce to promote tourism in the state, explained Ronald M. Ansin, commerce commissioner.

"We are presenting this spirited march to schools and colleges to establish a unifying musical theme which will promote the Spirit of Massachusetts throughout the Commonwealth," he said.

The march was arranged for marching bands by Frank L. Battisti, chairman of the wind ensemble department of the New England Conservatory of Music. He is the founder of the World Association of Symphonic Band Ensembles and past president of the College Band Directors National Association.

Marching bands competing in the New England State High School Parade and Championship, November 25 at Quincy, will be judged on their performances of the "Spirit of Massachusetts March."

The winner of the competition will march in the presidential inaugural parade in Washington and the Cotton Bowl Parade in Dallas, TX.

Jazz Dance Group Featured

The famed Les Ballets Jazz de Montreal will perform tomorrow, Oct. 19, for one performance only, at the J. Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts, Shawsheen Road.

This unique and highly original company has won the hearts of dance fans around the world and, in their short ten year existence, have become a vanguard for jazz dance. They have earned an outstanding reputation in the United States and Canada and have met with critical acclaim in Italy, France, Switzerland, Ireland, Mexico, etc.

Directed by Genevieve Salbaing, Les Ballets Jazz has successfully carried the banner for jazz dance, securely establishing the genre. Armed with innovative and dramatic choreography, that great jazz sound and wonderful dancers, the company makes a revealing statement—that when dance interpretation is mastered like this, the human body becomes a musical instrument, finely tuned and superbly played.

Their medium is movement; the message is enjoyment. Given grace and beauty by a firm ballet technique, Ballets Jazz takes off with a bang, flying and vibrating to the rhythms of jazz. One astounded critic has proclaimed "... long may it shake, shimmy and tap its way across the stages of the world!"

Peter Serkin and the Springfield Symphony Orchestra, Robert Gutter, conductor, will appear Thursday, Oct. 26, at 8 p.m.

Serkin will play Mozart's "Concerto No. 13 for Piano and Orchestra" and Stravinsky's "Capriccio for Piano and Orchestra."

Berlioz's "Overture to Beatrice and Benedict" and Tchaikovsky's "Little Russian Symphony No. 2" is also included.

Serkin has been hailed, both in this country and in Europe, as an extraordinary artist. Only in his mid-30s, he is already counted among the ranks of our finest pianists.

The Collins Center Box Office is open daily from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tickets may also be purchased at the Andover and North Andover branches of Andover Savings Bank and at "Just For You," 36 Main St., Andover.

Faculty Concert At Academy

There will be a faculty chamber music concert at Phillips Academy Sunday, Oct. 21, at 3 p.m. in Graves Hall. The program will include Telemann's "Concerto for trumpet, strings and Continuo," a "Trio for Clarinet, Viola and Piano" by Max Bruch and the "Trout Quintet" based upon the Schubert song of the same title. The Schubert work is in five movements and has the unique orchestration of violin, viola, cello, bass and piano. It is one of Schubert's best known works.

Also featured will be a first performance of "Viento, Agua, Piedra" for soprano, two guitars and cello by John Major who is an instructor in guitar at Phillips Academy and an alumnus of the school. Major has studied with Abel Carlevaro and Michael Lorimer and has given the premieres of many new compositions for guitar. He was selected by Julian Bream in 1981 to appear in his San Francisco master class. Bream's first U.S. class in a decade. Major's music has been performed by the Kronos Quartet of San Francisco and by Michael Lorimer, publisher of New American Guitar Music. Major was lecturer in guitar at California State University Sacramento from 1979-83 and was on the California Arts Council Touring Roster.

Anniversary Show For Chapter

The Merrimack Valley Chapter, Sweet Adelines, Inc. of Andover, third place medalists in Region I, are celebrating their 10th anniversary with a spectacular annual show at the Tenney Middle School, Methuen, November 3. There will be two shows, a matinee at 2 p.m. and another at 8 p.m. (followed by an After Glow show).

In addition to the chorus, there will be special appearances by two quartets; Boston Common, past International Men's champions, and Pandemonium, a women's quartet famous for creating exactly what the name implies.

This year's show, "Flashback," will be a combination of past performances revisited, some special comedy material and a look into the future, presenting routines to be seen in the 1985 Region I competition.

Merrimack Valley Chapter placed third in the Women's Regional Competition in Springfield in April with 65 members competing against 27 choruses from Canada, New England and eastern New York. Since then the chorus has been seen at the Billerica Library, Hampton Beach Shell in August and numerous nursing homes in the Greater Andover/Lowell area.

Information on tickets can be obtained from Jan McLellan or can be purchased at the door. There are reduced rates for children and senior citizens at the matinee show.

Andover Resident In Lead Role

Colonial Chorus Players, Reading's musical theatre company, will open its 24th season November 16, 17, 23 and 24 at the Joshua Eaton School with Adler and Ross' hilarious Tony Award-winning hit, "The Pajama Game."

Set in a midwestern pajama factory about to burst at the seams over a pay raise dispute between labor and management, this comedy offers romance, intrigue, a marvelous score ("Hey There," "Steam Heat," "Hernando's Hideaway," "I'll Never be Jealous Again") and sensational choreography.

Cast in the principal roles are: Maria Marasco of Andover as Babe Williams, David Ryan of Billerica as Sid Sorokin; Bob Haggerty of Stoneham as Hines; Lorraine Tempone of Stoneham as Gladys; Tripp Grosvenor of Reading as Prez; Mary Ellen Maguire of Reading as Mabel; Laura Kenty of North Reading as Mae; Bob Hawes of Woburn as Hasler; Harvey Schein of Newton as Max; and Paul McCarthy of Reading as Pop.

Tickets are by reservation and may be ordered by calling Phyllis Evensen, Shelby Road, Reading.

Money Myth

You've no doubt heard people say that "Money is the root of all evil." People who circulate that myth have actually misquoted the Bible. In I Timothy 6:10, the Bible says "The love of money is a root of all evil." That's quite a different story. Having or not having money is not the source of evil. The problem comes when money becomes something you love.

Reception For Foreign Students At Library

Jane C. Peterson

A reception for foreign students currently living in Andover, North Andover and Georgetown, attending Andover High School, North Andover High School, Georgetown High School and Phillips Academy, will be held Thursday, Oct. 25, at 7:30 p.m. at Memorial Hall Library, Andover.

This annual event, sponsored by the American Field Service and Memorial Hall Library, commemorates the founding on October 24, 1945 of the United Nations organization and its purpose, "to develop friendly relations among nations."

A program of international songs will be sung by Jane Cormier Peterson of Bradford. A graduate of Andover High School and Bradford College, Mrs. Peterson recently completed a summer course at American Institute of Musical Studies in Graz, Austria. She has appeared as soloist in the Bradford Pentucket Chorale, the Newburyport Society for Arts and Humanities and is the soprano soloist at West Parish Church.

Of particular interest will be the appearance of this year's local AFS students: Jesus Gonzalez of Spain, Hadija Hatimy of Kenya, Manja Condus of Germany and Helje Salberg of Norway. About 20 adult AFS members from Germany staying with families in Andover and North Andover will also attend.

Sue Wahr, president of the Andover chapter of AFS, will serve as hostess. Refreshments, provided by student members of the various chapters, will be served following the program.

SOCIAL SECURITY DENIALS

The Social Security Administration has attempted to reduce payment of benefits by improperly denying claims at the first two levels of review. Disabled claimants should not become discouraged and abandon their claims when they receive these early denials, since improper denials can often be reversed on appeal. Attorney Neil E. Onerheim spends a significant portion of his law practice representing claimants for Social Security Disability Benefits. No fee unless benefits are awarded.

Attends Conference On Women

Louise Hart, 11 Heather Drive, Andover, attended a conference on the International Women's Decade and Beyond last weekend in New York.

Featuring speakers such as Jihan Sadat, former first lady of Egypt; Marguerite Papandreaou, president of the Women's Union of Greece; and Nancy Clark Reynolds of Wexler Corp., U.S. Representative to the Commission on the Status of Women, the conference focused on a review and appraisal of the UN Decade for Women and preparations for the 1985 conference in Nairobi.

More than 50 organizations concerned with the plight of women and children worldwide co-sponsored the conference, noted Hart, "because we recognize that we must join together if the needs of women and children and thus the future of our country and the world are to be met. You cannot separate the two for in the quality of our children's lives is the potential and quality of our future."

At the conference attended by almost 1,000 women from throughout the U.S. and abroad, Hart challenged the Reagan Administration's position in insisting that defense spending and nuclear arms control not be allowed to be discussed in Nairobi.

A Reagan appointee, Reynolds defended the administration's position as an attempt to protect the women and the conference from being "politicized." She said that they thought that women and the conference should focus on economic development, violence in the home and other "women's issues" and not topics which were best left to those negotiating in Geneva.

Louise Hart

Hart is women's chairman for the Mass. State Division, American Association of University Women, one of the sponsoring organizations.

Sunday Walk

Greenbelt is a non-profit organization dedicated to conservation on a local basis.

Solar Tour

The state doesn't think our schools deserve as much money as schools in other districts.

Senator Bob Buell is fighting that nonsense.

Due to an unfair funding formula, many of our schools receive less state aid per student than schools in other areas.

But education is just as expensive here

That's why Senator Bob Buell favors a new formula that will fund each community on a per student basis. And, from his seat on the Legislative Committee on Education, his strong voice is being heard. In fact, he's already secured additional funding for regional schools. He's also fighting to keep localized control over education, toughen teacher and curriculum requirements, offer teachers the option of early retirement, and upgrade vocational education programs.

And you can be sure that your State Senator will continue to work hard for your children's right to quality education

Gailey-Gilday

Rye Bethany Congregational Church was the setting for the wedding of Wendy L. Gilday and James R. Gailey. The double ring ceremony was conducted by Rev. Mark A. Horton on June 9.

The bride is the daughter of Harriet Kristenson of Rye Beach and Paul Gilday of Andover. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gailey of New Castle.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a gown of chiffonette over taffeta with reembroidered French lace cascading to a semi-cathedral-length train. The mandarin collar neckline and capped sleeves were complimented by the reimbroidered French illusion and seed pearls of the fitted lace bodice. A coronet of baby's breath and white roses were worn in her hair. She carried the family prayer book covered with white tea roses, baby's breath and stafanotis.

Debra Briere of Portsmouth was maid of honor. Nancy Jensen of Danvers and Diane Corbin of Cornish, Maine, sisters of the bride, were bridesmaids. They wore pink tea-length taffeta dresses with a coronet of baby's breath in their hair and carried three long stem pink roses.

Sarah Corbin of Cornish, Maine, was flower girl. She wore a pink dress like that of the attendants and carried a white wicker basket of rose petals and wore a pink ribbon in her hair.

John Gailey, Jr. of Santa Barbara, CA, twin brother of the groom, was best man. Ushers were David Harvey and Paul Harvey, Jr., both of Portsmouth, cousins of the groom.

The bride's mother wore a deep pink tea-length dress with cathedral sleeves while the bridegrooms' mother wore a tea-length dress of the same color.

A reception for 80 guests was held in the church's fellowship hall with Jane Gailey, sister of the groom, presenting the guest book.

The bride graduated from Portsmouth High School in 1979 and UNH in 1983. She is employed by Paul E. Harvey, DMD.

Her husband graduated from Portsmouth High School in 1976 and the N.H. Technical Institute in 1979. He is employed by R.B. Allen, Inc. in North Hampton.

Following a wedding trip to Nantucket, the couple reside in Portsmouth.

Homecoming '84

Andover football fans were not only treated to a victory last Saturday but also homecoming activities during halftime. Seniors, juniors and sophomores mounted the floats they made, dressed in costumes and paraded by the stands greeting all. The floats stopped in front of the stands so the king and queen's court could be selected and crowned. Pinky Grams, cheerleading coach, and Bob King, senior class advisor, did the honors. Photos clockwise from upper left: The king and queen and their court, junior attendant, Jen Patten, homecoming king and queen, Matt Aumais and Deanna Abrahamson, sophomore attendant, Christen Ackerly and senior attendant, Sarah Poor; senior, Whitney Camasso and Missy take a ride on the seniors' float; Ann Wilde, sophomore class advisor, helps sophomore Jennifer Hechemy with her make-up before activities began; Seniors give everybody a warm howdy as their float passes the stands; Class of 86 extends a welcome.

"You've got to believe. It works!"

"It was New Years' 1983, I was 27 years of age and sick of looking like I looked, and feeling like only someone with bad skin can feel. I made a New Year's resolution to try ELIZABETH GRADY. I had seen their 'Before & After' ads, and wanted to believe that whatever they had done for those people, they could do for me.

From my first appointment, I just knew my belief was well founded. The woman who was to become my esthetician was knowledgeable, caring and confidence-inspiring. I knew I'd be OK.

I won't say it was easy. And it certainly didn't happen overnight. But I never gave up. It's been over 9 months now since my skin has been clear. My family was fascinated by the change, and my boss is amazed it's still working. But I work at it, doing what they taught me. It's great to have good skin, especially when you never thought you could. I smile alot now, and like Maria in West Side Story. 'I feel pretty.'

Linda Matthews

The only real problem with "problem skin" is not doing everything you can about it. Come in for a FREE CONSULTATION with a professional esthetician. No matter what the problem, ELIZABETH GRADY just may have the solution.

Mission Weekend

Doing what they can to help the homeless was how nine volunteers from the Andover Baptist Church spent part of Mission Weekend last Saturday as they helped finish a third floor at Lazarus House in Lawrence. The house takes in the homeless and provides them with food, clothing and shelter. Rev. Reginald MacDonald, pastor of Andover Baptist Church, directed volunteers on the work done last Saturday afternoon. Lazarus House was established close to two years ago and is under the direction of the Lazarus House Board of Directors. ## Temple Hosts Convention

Temple Emanuel, 7 Haggetts Pond Road, Andover, will be host congregation during the forthcoming Biennial Regional Convention of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, the national organization which serves the religious and educational needs of Reform Jews in America. The UAHC Convention will take place at the Sheraton Rolling Green Inn, Andover, October 26-28, bringing together delegates representing more than 70 Reform Temples throughout New England and the eastern part of Upper New York State.

To celebrate the official opening of this Biennial Convention, a special Friday Shabbat Service will take place at Temple Emanuel, Oct. 26, at 8:15 p.m. Temple members and their guests are invited to share in this special Shabbat Service. Rabbi Harry A. Roth, Cantor Norman Brody and the Temple Choir will conduct this service as part of the welcoming ceremonies for the delegates and honored guests attending the convention.

Following message of welcome to be delivered by the officers of Temple Emanuel and the regional leaders representing the Northeast Council of the Union of American Hebrew Congregation, Dr. Sol Gittleman of Tufts University will address the entire congregation. Dr. Gittleman has held important academic appointments at Tufts since 1971 serving as professor of German and as McClester Professor of Religious Studies. He is academic vice president and provost at the University in Medford.

Dr. Gittleman's topic will be "The American Jewish Community, One Hundred Years After it all Started." It is expected that this convention will bring more than 300 delegates to Andover, including many prominent Jewish religious leaders, rabbis and educators from New England. They will participate in a variety of seminars, panel-discussions and social events which are part of a stimulating program prepared by the Northeast Council Board.

Methodism Anniversary Celebrated At Vale

Members and friends of the Ballard Vale United Church (United Methodist Church, United Church of Christ) gathered in Shaw Fellowship Hall this past Sunday evening to celebrate the bicentennial of American Methodism.

Members of the Faith Lutheran Church prepared and served a family-style chicken dinner.

The Rev. Gary S. Cornell, pastor, shared a little of the history of the former Ballardvale Methodist Church which had been located at the corner of Marland and Tewksbury Streets. The Rev. Jack Snook, retired member of the Southern New England Annual Conference of the United Methodist Church, shared some of the highlights of the life and ministry of the Rev. John Wesley, founder of the world-wide Methodist movement. The evening ended with a Wesleyan hymn sing and closing prayers.

Jeffrey Thomas, director of Camp Aldersgate, North Scituate, R.I., will be the guest preacher at this Sunday's 10:30 a.m. Service of the Word.

Would you hire a fox to guard the chickens?

The insurance companies would like you to pay a bit more for your car insurance.

One hundred million dollars more in 1985.

Massachusetts already has the highest car insurance costs in the nation.

Not because we're such bad drivers.

But because the insurance companies headquartered in Massachusetts have had good legislators.

Sen. Bob Buell has been one of their best friends.

He's stood silent and helped kill a bill that would have studied the whole rate structure.

He's continually sponsored bills designed to help the insurance industries at your expense.

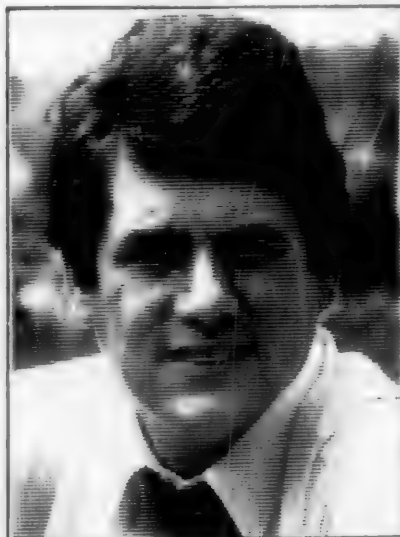

His campaign reports during the last two years show more than 30 contributions from insurance brokers and from three different insurance company PACs.

And he's a full-time licensed insurance broker, with offices five minutes from the State House.

Would you like to pay less...much less...for your car insurance?

Don't ask Bob Buell to help you.

The fox doesn't help the chickens.

Film Series Scheduled At Andover Baptist Church

"What Makes A Christian Family Christian," a series of four films, will be shown at the Andover Baptist Church on Sundays at 6:30 p.m. beginning October 21 through November 11.

The series features "Chapel of the Air" speaker David Mains and his wife, Karen, author of several books, including "Open Heart, Open Home."

Each film is a half hour long and will be followed with refreshments and group discussions.

Film 1, Oct. 21, titled "God With Us" demonstrates ways to discover and remain sensitive to Christ's presence even on most hectic days.

Film 2, Oct. 28, is titled "Restoring the Sabbath." This film will show how families can recapture the enthusiasm for a Sunday experience that glorifies God.

Film 3, Nov. 4, "Different and Proud of it" examines how we live. Literature, music, television. . . when do these hinder consistent Christian living?

The films will be shown free of charge and everyone is invited.

Missioners To Speak

John and Janice Cogswell, lay ministers in the United Methodist Church, will conduct the 10 a.m. worship service Sunday, Oct. 21, at the First United Methodist Church in North Andover (intersection of Routes 114 and 133) and address the issue, "Why Missions?"

Currently living in Ashland with their two daughters, Elizabeth and Ruth, John, a machine designer for the graphic arts industry, and Janice, a homemaker, have been involved in missionary work for a number of years.

Their travels have taken them to Kenya, where they worked in a local hospital, India, as consultants in a technical exchange, Dominica, as members of a work team, and Bolivia.

They are presently engaged in mission projects in New Hampshire and Boston, as well as addressing a number of local peace issues.

During the Fellowship Hour after the service, worshippers will meet the Cogswells in a "talk-back." The public is welcome.

Service At Lowell Temple

On Thursday, Oct. 25, at 8 p.m., another in the series of Rosh Hodesh services (honoring the arrival of the new moon), will take place at Temple Emanuel of Merrimack Valley, 101 West Forest St., Lowell.

This ancient custom, which began as a way of structuring a calendar, has been revived and celebrated during the past few years at Temple Emanuel with a variety of programs.

A film will be shown, "A House in the Woods," a 60-minute, color drama about the Dominick family who are drifting apart because of the threat of depression, a wide spread mental illness. How this family faced the problem and overcame it is an inspiring and thought-provoking lesson.

A discussion period will follow and refreshments will be served.

Swimmers Finally Lose

As all good things must, the undefeated string for the Andover varsity swim team came to an end last Friday at the hands of Chelmsford in the Lowell YMCA pool.

The Golden Warrior Wave did not go down without an awesome battle as Chelmsford squeaked by 87-85.

Andover captured the medley relay with Debbie Rice, Anne Koerckel, Cathy Smith and Michelle Fox while Koerckel took first in the 200 yard freestyle with Smith third.

Carilyn Cronin swam a strong race for second place in the 200 yard I.M. with Claire Piazza fourth. Fox swam to her second consecutive win in the 50 free with Anne Herrmann fourth. Susan Gerstberger was third and Karen Reddington fourth in the diving competition.

Smith swam to her second first of the day in the 100 yard butterfly with Rice third and Mary Robb fifth. Fox completed a triple when she took the 100 free with Herrmann fourth. Mitchell and Cronin were second and third, respectively, in the 500 free.

Rice won the 100 yard backstroke with Susan Estabrooks fourth and Koerckel captured the 100 yard breaststroke with Costello third and Piazza fourth.

Andover needed a win in the last event, the 400 yard freestyle. The team of Herrmann, Piazza, Costello and Cronin gave it all they had an only missed by a touch, finishing second to a tough Chelmsford foursome. Tina Demoulas, Laura MacVicar, Stephanie Mitchell and Linda Rensink were third.

Preliminary Plan For Office Building Given Approval

By Sue Aucella Deacon

Preliminary plans for 600,000 square feet of new River Road office space won the Planning Board's approval last Tuesday night.

The board unanimously (with Russ Moran absent) approved preliminary plans for Andover Business Park, submitted by the John M. Corcoran Company of Milton for the 96-acre site, located on River Road on the Andover/Lawrence line.

One 80,000-square foot office building is already under construction at the eight-lot site, staff planner Stephen Colyer told the board, but there are "numerous safeguards" built into the planning process before more construction may begin.

The developer must return to the planners and to the Conservation Commission at "each step" along the way to full development at the site, he explained, which could accommodate buildings totalling 675,000 square feet, according to Corcoran.

The Conservation Commission has already issued an Order of Conditions based on plans for the development of the total site, Colyer noted; that order of conditions includes 27 conditions. (About 15 to 20 percent of the total site includes wetlands.)

The developer must return to Building Inspector Sam DeSalvo and the planning board with detailed site plans when the remaining seven lots in the business park are developed, the planner said — which will probably be as soon as tenants are found for each lot.

About 70 acres of the development, including four buildings and portions of two more buildings, will be located in Andover when the business park is complete; the rest will be located in Lawrence, according to the developer. The entire site will be served by Lawrence water and sewer.

The familiar issue of River Road traffic emerged as the planners' greatest concern about Andover Business Park last week. Planner Paul Curley said the "biggest impact on the town" would be the traffic generated by the industrial development — and he noted that it is only "the first of many" new industrial sites being developed on River Road.

But Nancy Jeton, principal planner for the town's Community Development and Planning department, emphasized that the potential for future River Road traffic "has been studied to death since 1980" by Vanasse/Hangen Associates of Boston, planning consultants contracted by the town.

Saying she had "no problem with the traffic planning" done for the Corcoran Company site, Jeton explained that the developer has helped fund traffic studies of the River Road industrial area. As a result of Vanasse/Hangen's work, Andover is "committed" to improvements to River Road that will help absorb new industrial traffic, she said.

Those improvements include widening a section of the roadway from the I-93 interchange east to the Lawrence line, and plans for Andover Business Park include enough land to include that widening, Jeton said.

The Corcoran Co. has also helped fund an environmental impact review, conducted by Vanasse/Hangen as a prelude to road improvements; that report is due to be submitted to the town by Nov. 1, the planner said.

Chairman Margaret Bradshaw said that, as Colyer suggested, the planning board will probably make traffic improvements within the site a condition of their approval when the developer submits definitive plans for Andover Business Park.

To Delay CBD Plan

The Planning Board will not present 1985 annual town meeting with a proposal for expanding the Central Business District (CBD), as it had intended earlier this year.

But the board still hopes to draw up guidelines and goals for future expansion of the downtown business district before the spring meeting convenes.

The board's Central Business District Subcommittee has been working on a revised set of downtown parking regulations, Community Development and Planning Principal Planner Nancy Jeton told the board last Tuesday night (please see story on the subcommittee's parking proposals elsewhere in this edition) — and has run out of time to "grapple with" specific plans for expanding the CBD.

However, the planners will "define their guidelines" for CBD expansion in time for town meeting, Jeton said last Friday. The board will neither map out new boundaries for the business district nor identify specific parcels for possible business rezoning, she emphasized, but will outline their goals for expanding the district in the future.

At least one citizen is expected to present town meeting with a private article that would, if approved, rezone for business use a residential lot located at the edge of the current CBD, Jeton explained. The planning board must evaluate such articles and make their recommendations to voters — and that will require some rationale to support their recommendations.

Eventually — perhaps in 1986 — the planning board will present town meeting with a specific proposal for establishing a new downtown business zone, the planner indicated.

Before that can be done, she noted, all downtown parcels must be "thoroughly inventoried" to identify how the area is currently used, and which parcels are vacant.

New York Principal Named Assistant Superintendent

By Susan Rand

A six-month search for the assistant superintendent for secondary education in the town's public school system ended last Thursday, Oct. 11, when, by unanimous decision, the School Committee agreed to offer the position to Leslie George Loomis, a high school principal from upstate New York.

Loomis and the Andover School Committee have yet to finalize the deal, which hinges on a mutually agreeable salary for the job. Superintendent Kenneth R. Seifert said he would make a proposal to the school committee at its Oct. 23 meeting.

Said Seifert of Loomis' proposed salary, "I haven't shared it with the School Committee so it would be inappropriate to share it with the public."

Loomis said he was excited about coming here adding that he preferred not to disclose what he was asking for a salary or what he earned as principal of the Fayetteville-Manlius High School, which is located 15 miles east of Syracuse, in New York.

"I was impressed with the town and the quality of the school system is the most important thing," Loomis said of his decision to come to Andover. "Financial arrangements are a secondary consideration. I'll be moving from an area where real estate values are lower than they are in Andover."

Leslie G. Loomis

Loomis will begin work here in Andover on Monday, Dec. 3. Loomis was one of three finalists for the school post who were selected from a field of 46 applicants in the second round of a search for the secondary assistant superintendent.

The assistant superintendent for secondary education will oversee the Doherty and East Junior High Schools and Andover High, the combined student population of which is about 2,500, said Seifert.

Paring the original field of applicants from 46 to eight persons, who were invited to Andover for interviews, was a screening committee composed of public school administrators and parents of children in the school system including Lois Haslam, Francis L. Paul, Annetta Freedman, Patricia Dye, William Hart and Jerilyn Parla, all administrators, and parents Julie Weil, Mary Saracini and Laura Ernesto-Martin. Out of those eight semifinalists Loomis, Raymond L. Calabrese and Meredith Howe Jones were chosen for interviews with the School Committee.

Both of the other finalists interviewed last Thursday, Oct. 11, are high school principals. Jones, who lives in Cambridge, is head of the Joseph Brooks School, in Lincoln. And Calabrese, from Belchertown, is the principal at Granby High School, in Granby.

The principal at Fayetteville-Manlius High School since 1981, Loomis has a doctorate in education and began his teaching career as a Peace Corps volunteer in 1970. He received his doctorate from Harvard Graduate School of Education in 1981 and has a master's degree in business from Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration, earned in 1976. Loomis received his bachelor's degree from Williams College in 1967. He taught in Pereira, Columbia, in South America, at two schools and was director of a language instruction program there for corporate executives for four years, from 1968 to 1970. His South America work, said Loomis, was what sold him on teaching.

"I learned how much I loved education," said the principal, "and my work reaffirmed my certainty that I would spend my life doing something that would benefit other people."

Seifert told THE TOWNSMAN that he was pleased with the selection of Loomis, who he described as an analytical thinker with "excellent" training.

"He scored high with the screening committee and the School Committee," Seifert said of Loomis. "He has had a variety of teaching experiences and is in a very good high school. He has performed well there. Dr. Loomis wants to come to Andover. He assessed the community, he really did his homework."

Before assuming the principal's job in Manlius, Loomis was principal at Ridgefield High School, Ridgefield, Conn., and before that Newton South High School, Newton Centre, in 1976-77.

While in town for his interviews Loomis said he spoke with a number of school department employees who he said were "highly capable," adding, "I had a good feeling meeting them."

The Fayetteville-Manlius High School will miss Loomis, said his boss, Superintendent Philip Martin, adding that it was with mixed emotions that he viewed Loomis' leaving.

"I'm obviously pleased for him," said Martin, "for us I'm not so pleased."

Martin characterized Loomis as a hard worker who had made great advances in the high school's English, computer,

Poor Street Condo Plan Set For Appeals Board Hearing

By Susan Rand

Before work begins on a development of 29 condominiums, to be located on Poor Street, the Appeals Board must grant developers McNeil and Associates Inc., of Westwood, a special permit for the project. McNeil representatives will be among those addressing the Zoning Board of Appeals at the next scheduled meeting on Thursday, Nov. 1, at 7:30 p.m., in the second floor meeting room of the school administration building, off Whittier Street. There are eight hearings set for that meeting.

Town Meeting voters cleared the way for the condo-townhouse development by voting to rezone the 12 acre Poor Street parcel, which is owned by Andover resident James Barenboim. Once zoned Single Residence A, the land was changed by a vote of Town Meeting to Apartment Zoning. The change was supported at the March meeting by both the Planning Board and the Board of Selectmen.

Thomas Southworth, of McNeil, told THE TOWNSMAN the 29 condominiums, which will be housed in six brick and clapboard townhouse buildings, will sell for around $250,000 to $300,000 each. Southworth described the units as "very sophisticated," saying each will have two bedrooms and two or three baths.

Barenboim, who lives at 43 Oriole Drive, still owns the land and Southworth said McNeil will buy the property from him but he did not know when the transaction would take place nor could Southworth estimate the total cost of the condo

Selectmen Cave In To Scouts

Trick-or-treaters have the Board of Selectmen's permission to stay out fifteen minutes later than usual this year, thanks to a lesson in the politics of compromise staged for the benefit of a young Boy Scout troop Monday night.

Selectman William Dalton originally moved that trick-or-treating be allowed only between the hours of 5:30 and 8 p.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 31.

But members of the selectmen's audience raised some objections — their audience being Webelo scouts from Troop 77, who observed part of Monday's meeting for a first-hand look at local government.

The scouts protested that they needed more than two and one-half hours to collect Halloween goodies, and told the board 8:30 or 9 p.m. would be a better cut-off hour. (One scout even suggested that since safety is the reason behind the early hours, cars ought to be banned from the roads on Halloween instead.)

"Here we have some of the children of voters putting pressure on us," Dalton observed. As a compromise, he changed his motion from 8 to 8:15 p.m., and Charles Wesson, saying he was "feeling pressure from our constituency," seconded the new motion.

"That's soft fathers talking, soft fathers," Selectman Norma Gammon scoffed. But she joined in the unanimous vote (with Gerald Silverman absent) to allow trick-or-treating from 5:30 to 8:15 p.m.

"You've got another fifteen minutes," Chairman Donn Byrne told the Webelos. "Now be careful." He urged them to use flashlights and cross streets carefully on Halloween.

Selectman Dalton, after the vote was concluded, noted that the board had not only obliged their young constituents, but the press as well: The Halloween controversy would give reporters something to write about after an otherwise uninspiring session, he predicted.

Open House

The Andover Fire Department conducted their annual open house last Saturday in conjunction with fire prevention week, Oct. 7-13. Hundreds of people, especially children, toured the station throughout the day and got a closer look at the equipment used to battle fires. Children climbed on top and inside of the fire trucks, tried on fire helmets, boots and coats and got a small idea what a fireman's job is like. The adults were just as curious as the youngsters and had their questions answered by the firemen on hand. ## Delay Must Produce Some Compromise

While the decision to delay any recommendations for expansion of the Central Business District (CBD) by the planning board may be understandable, it is likewise unfortunate that they must wait yet another year for such a decision.

The planners, a week ago, determined that there would be insufficient time to properly present an expanded CBD to the 1985 town meeting, but that some guidelines may be adopted by the board to examine proposals which may be presented.

The earliest town meeting may see a new CBD plan by the planners would be the 1986 town meeting.

In view of community development and planning department being without a director and no decision having been made as to replacing the administrator, it is understandable that the planners must be careful of the work load they place upon what is left of its professional staff. Therefore, the decision to concentrate on parking issues rather than business district expansion is somewhat acceptable.

But, that decision may also place the planners in a position of being a little more compromising in dealing with proposals which may come before it on an individual basis by those wishing to use residential properties for business use on the fringes of commercially designated lots.

Until now, the planners could easily rely on the spot zoning nature of such a proposal.

Construction within commercially zoned downtown areas and development of professional offices, all on the edge of the Central Business District, now makes it imperative for a second look at any individual request for relief which may be presented.

The planners, by statute, must make recommendations to town meeting when rezoning proposals are presented. While they are purely recommendations, town meeting has almost always followed the guidance in either accepting or rejecting the plans.

With another delay in presenting a CBD expansion proposal, it seems imperative that the planners temper their thinking to allow some sort of conversion of individual properties to business use.

One resident of the Park Street area has already indicated his desire to alter the classification of his property, due primarily to commercial development reaching his neighborhood.

Doubtless there will be additional requests for commercial designation of properties abutting the business area on Elm Street as well as off the Main Street areas.

Since some expansion of the business district seems inevitable, it is recommended that the planning board, in its examination of the specific proposals, compromise its views in light of the delay in the overall downtown planning process.

Down The Years With The Townsman

75 Years Ago — October 1909

Brooks F. Holt brought a good sized watermelon into the Townsman office Thursday morning which he raised himself.

A new lunch cart put in an appearance off Essex Street last Monday morning. It is owned by a Lowell man and is the first of its kind to be installed here for some years.

St. Augustine's Holy Name Society of Andover, with Patrick J. Barrett as marshal, formed part of the big religious parade held in Lawrence last Sunday afternoon, on the occasion of the Notre Dame Jubilee. The parade was the greatest one Lawrence has ever witnessed. The great number of societies represented, each with its flying colors, bands, and drum corps, formed a line of, at a conservative estimate, 3500 men. It took the parade about three quarters of an hour to pass a given point.

JUVISY, Oct. 13 — Count DeLambert, the French aeroplanist, just before dark last night accomplished one of the most remarkable and daring feats yet to the credit of heavier-than-air machines. Starting from the aerodrome at Juvisy, he flew to Paris, a distance of 13 miles. After maneuvering over the city at an average height of 400 feet, he ascended in gradually diminishing circles and passed several hundred feet above the Eiffel Tower. He then returned to Juvisy. Thousands who watched from the streets of Paris could barely credit their senses when they saw the aeroplane, a tiny object gliding swiftly above the tower.

50 Years Ago — October 1934

The low bid of $259,000 on the general contract for the new school project was submitted by the E.J. Rappoli Company of Cambridge, it was learned when the bids were opened last Saturday night. The bids will be turned over to the State Engineers of the Public Works Administration and then submitted to Washington, D.C. for final approval. They will be returned to the town with recommendations. It is understood that all of the bidders have been doing PWA work and have been satisfactory.

There is no way in which the town of Andover can continue licenses for package stores without continuing them for restaurants, it was learned this week from the Alcoholic Beverages Commission. The verbal ruling means that the town must remain just as it is now or dispense with liquor entirely.

A forsythia in bloom was brought into our office this week. The forsythia usually blooms in the early spring before the leaves are out, but this sturdy little blossom fought it out with last week's snowstorm. It was grown in Robert V. Deyermund's garden.

The Town Hall will be transformed into an old English street scene next Friday and Saturday, when a Dickens Carnival, consisting of a sale and entertainment, will be held under the auspices of the King's Daughters of the South Church. Stucco buildings will line either side of the hall, and the stage will represent a Dickens room in an inn at Colbran Kent.

25 Years Ago — October 1959

Andover's school population will not increase as rapidly in the next ten years as it has in the past, according to a statistical analysis prepared for the School Committee by a special committee of townspeople. The statistics study resulted from the School Committee's desire to have some definite estimates on which to base decisions as to school needs during the next decade.

The Selectmen expressed deep concern with drainage plans for the sub-division on the Wild Rose Farm during the regular Monday night session. Secretary William Stewart focused the Board's attention on the plan, which was approved early in June by the Planning Board, following extensive hearings and many discussion sessions.

In the interest of improving the postal service, arrangements have been made to make a collection on Sundays and holidays from the box located in front of the Ballardvale Post Office. The collection will be made at 3 p.m. by vehicles from the Andover Post Office, effective Sunday. Ballardvale patrons are advised to include the name of the Post Office and state and to refrain from using the designation "Local" or "Town" in the address of their mail.

10 Years Ago — October 1974

Andover police and fire officials are continuing their investigation of seven suspicious fires which have taken place during the past month. Investigators have now surmised that there is a distinct possibility that all of the suspicious fires are related and are working on that theory at the moment. The latest fire caused considerable damage to the home of Atty. and Mrs. Richard Savrann, 11 Sheridan Road, last Thursday night. The fire got its start through incendiary devices at the rear of the home.

A Massachusetts Association of School Committees spokesman has told the Andover School Committee that it was not obliged to find a spot for former Assis-

Country Club Estates Work Is Slow But Satisfactory

Developer Yvon Cormier is taking longer than expected to stabilize a section of Andover Country Club Estates that was excavated without Planning Board approval last summer, but his efforts have been "satisfactory," the board was told last week.

Principal Planner Nancy Jeton said last Tuesday night that stabilization at section four of the country club development was "eighty percent complete." Cormier's crews had seeded and placed hay bales along the portion of the section that runs along Route 495 and two hills, she said, and had installed a watering system as well.

However, the developer had not finished transporting a large pile of gravel from the subdivision to Falcon Crest, another Cormier development located off Bailey Road in West Andover. That work would probably not be completed until late this week, Jeton indicated, although the developer had planned to remove the entire gravel pile by the end of September.

Jeton explained that Cormier's original plan to move the gravel pile within a ten-day period had proved "unrealistic." But staff site inspections showed that the developer seemed to be working "as fast as possible," she added.

Cormier had "performed satisfactorily" in his efforts to stabilize section four, the planner concluded, noting that she had heard no complaints from neighbors of the site.

Although the planning board did not take any action after hearing Jeton's progress report, they expressed some concern that the developer had not returned to them to request an extension on his Sept. 30 deadline for closing up the section.

Planner Andrew Girdwood said it was Cormier's responsibility to keep the board informed of his progress and of any delays — not the planning staff's responsibility to continue checking up on him.

One solution, Jeton suggested, might be to require the developer to file weekly status reports with the Community Development and Planning staff — which would "put the onus on him" to keep town officials informed of his progress.

The planning board ordered work stopped at section four last June, after discovering that Cormier had begun earth removal within that section without their approval.

Work was allowed to resume in July, when the board drafted a list of conditions for the developer — including a Sept. 30 deadline for stabilizing the section.

Section four is a 38.9-acre portion of the 360-acre Andover Country Club Estates. Bounded by Route 495, the section is located at the end of Canterbury Street, and includes several fairways on the club's golf course.

Gourmet, Wine Shop Approved By Board

The Andover Meat Shoppe will have a new style by mid-November, when a gourmet take-out store and package store will open for business behind its doors at 32 Park St.

The Board of Selectmen Monday night unanimously approved (with Gerald Silverman absent) a retail package goods wine and malt beverage license for Frederick Hamel of Wine Garden, Inc., who will manage the package goods section of the new take-out shop.

Andover Atty. Carl Berger, representing Hamel, explained that Horne of Plenty, billed as "a creative cookery," will lease half the meat shop to offer take-out food. (There will be no seating for dining in the store.)

Wine Garden, Inc. and Horne of Plenty will share the leased space, while the Meat Shoppe will remain in the rest of the space.

The new package store will sell "top grades of wine, $10 and up," Berger said, while the gourmet shop will feature such offerings as sandwiches, quiche, salad and roasted meats, ranging from $2.95 to $3.95. Horne of Plenty, run by Olan Horne and Kenneth Cregg, will also cater functions.

Damien Turbini, owner of the Meat Shoppe, explained yesterday that all three businesses will share open floor space, a new sign, and advertising. The four men are "all very good friends" who look forward to their joint enterprise, he added.

Turbini said renovations are already underway within the shop, and should be completed by mid-November; the three businesses plan to host a grand opening celebration at that time, he said.

Perry, Redgate, Bourdelais Power Warriors Over Hillies

By Rick Harrison

Underclassmen Tim Perry, Steve Redgate and Rich Bourdelais were the catalysts, as the Andover High football team exploded for 28 second-half points and rocked visiting Haverhill 28-6 before a Homecoming crowd of several hundred fans last weekend at Lovely Field.

Perry once again showed his versatility with a virtuoso performance at quarterback, safety, as a part-time punter and on the kickoff team.

Offensively the junior signal-caller led all rushers with 82 yards in 13 carries, completed 7-of-13 passes for 119 yards and scored the final AHS touchdown. He has now rushed for over 300 yards and thrown for 500 more in the Golden Warriors' five games.

On defense Perry contributed a pass interception, setting up his own TD, and was also credited with a fumble recovery when he ripped the ball from the hands of a Haverhill running back to halt a Hillies' drive and set up the third Andover score.

Sophomore running back Steve Redgate led a 21-point fourth quarter surge by scoring his first two varsity touchdowns, and the two-way starter finished the game with 60 yards rushing in 11 carries.

Sophomore linebacker Rich Bourdelais produced a yeoman effort on defense, participating in 15 tackles and recording two of Andover's three sacks.

Senior placekicker Craig Hammond continued his impressive work, splitting the uprights with four conversions to improve his season PAT mark to a perfect 9-for-9. Hammond also has a fieldgoal to his credit and is tied for the overall team lead in points with 12.

Helping Hammond keep that record clean are snapper Tom Rossbach and holder Rob Carpentier, both of whom also performed flawlessly once again last Saturday.

Shane Smith added another consistent all-around performance, scoring one touchdown, picking up 21 tough yards on the ground and helping anchor the AHS defense from his end position.

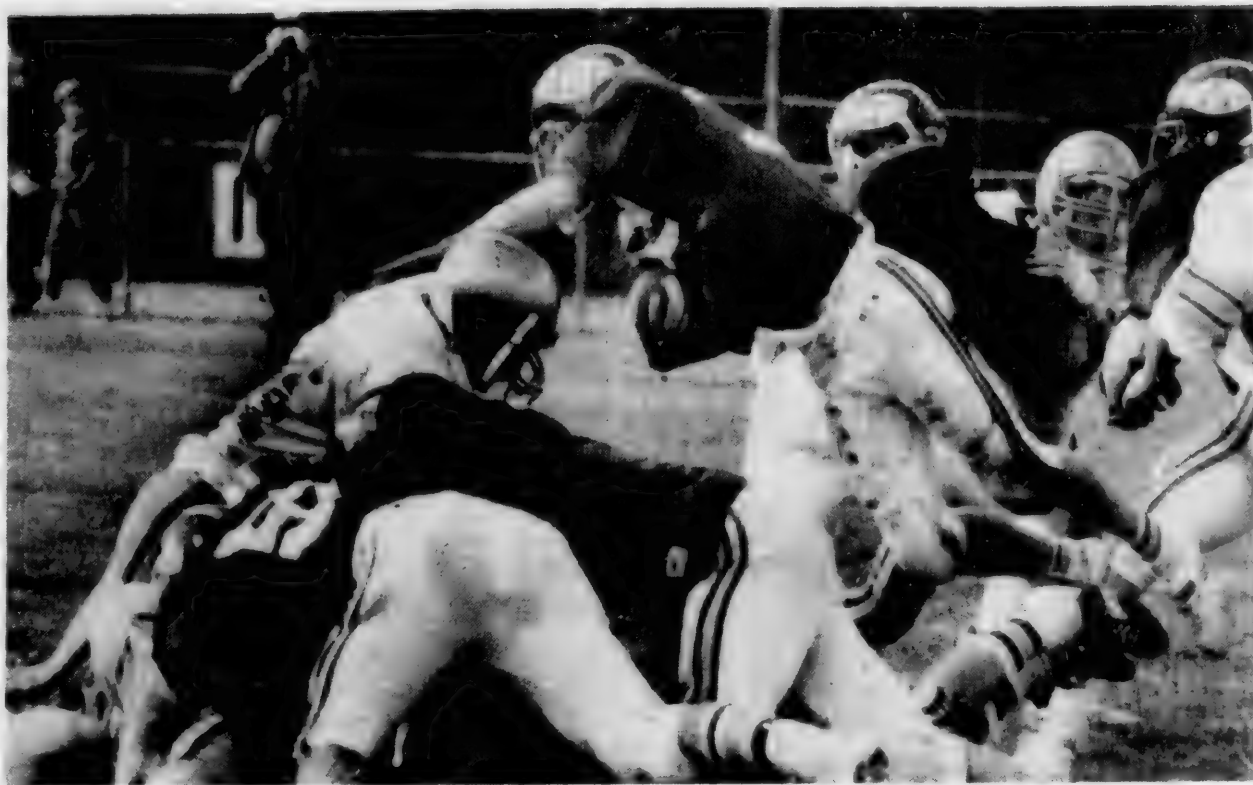

On one play Smith, who also centers for punts, made the snap to kicker Todd Rockman and then hustled downfield to tackle the ballcarrier.

Perry threw the ball to six different receivers this week, with excellent catches made by Doug Clements, Eric Deloury, Brian Finnerty, Chris Madden, Keith Driscoll and Redgate.

Madden, with assistance from Perry, made a key defensive play by stopping Haverhill's two-point conversion try after its lone touchdown. At the time, early in the final period, it protected a slim 7-6 AHS advantage.

Also contributing to the solid defensive effort were Co-Capt. Brian McNally, Steve Duncan, Mark Polakow, Dave Sullivan, Phil Starks, John Sullivan, Bob Smith, Rob DiTroia, Driscoll, Redgate, Finnerty, Rob Carpentier, Nick Lembo and Glenn Allard.

The victory hiked the Golden Warriors'

Warriors Climb Over Hillies

The Andover High Golden Warriors charged over Haverhill Hillies 28-6 by mounting a strong defensive unit and scoring all their touchdowns in the second half. After a halftime of homecoming activities, the Warriors came on the field a different club and dominated the remainder of the game. overall Merrimack Valley Conference record to 2-3-0, and Coach Dick Collins' squad travels to Veterans Stadium for a game with archrival Lawrence High this Saturday (1:30 p.m.).

The Lancers, 1-4-0, whipped Greater-Lawrence Regional 26-8 last weekend for their first victory after several tough losses including a 7-6 setback to Tewksbury.

Clements, Redgate, Perry and Hammond pace the Andover offense with 12 points apiece, while Smith and Kevin Rourke have six each.

Deanna Abrahamson was chosen the Homecoming Queen and Matt Aumais the Homecoming King at halftime festivities.

Scoreless First Half

Neither Andover nor Haverhill (now 0-5-0) scored or mounted a serious threat in the first half, the Warriors holding a 97-84 edge in total yardage and both teams managing just four first downs.

The Hillies did take Hammond's opening kick-off and drive from their own 17 yard line to the AHS 27, the key play a 30-yard pass from QB Dan Grant to halfback Vin Ferrhnte.

At this point the march stalled, however, and Shane Smith mounted a fierce rush and deflected a fourth-down pass attempt to officially end the drive.

The Warriors brought the ball back across midfield, Perry sprinting 20 yards on one carry and completing a 12-yard toss to Finnerty, but a holding penalty proved costly and eventually forced a Rockman punt.

Midway through the second period AHS moved from its own 30 to the Hillies' 31, Smith ripping off 11 yards, Perry running twice for 11 yards, and Perry zipping a 17-yard aerial over the middle to the 6'4" Deloury.

An intentional grounding penalty blunted this bid, moving the ball back near midfield. Perry quickly hit Deloury again for 13 yards, and Doug Clements barely missed a superb catch when he was popped hard by a Haverhill defender just as the ball hit his hands.

The half ended a short time later with Smith and Phil Starks throwing Grant for a nine-yard loss at the Haverhill 35.

First Break

The Golden Warriors opened the second half with a vengeance, Perry bolting 18 yards on the first play from scrimmage and then firing a 22 yard pass to Clements at the Haverhill 26.

Andover was stopped at this point, but the sequence also set the stage for the game's first big break and the initial AHS touchdown.

A third-down quarterback sack by Bourdelais forced the Hillies' Glenn McIntosh back into punt formation inside his own five yard line. The center snap soared over his head into the end-zone, and when the track sprinter tried to run left out of trouble he was driven out of bounds at the six yard line by Rob DiTroia.

Perry carried twice, advancing the ball to the one, and he then swung right and lobbed an option pitch to Redgate who cruised to paydirt untouched.

Rosbach then snapped the ball, Carpentier placed it down and Hammond drilled it through for a 7-0 Andover edge at 4:21 of the third period.

Haverhill, which had been shut out in its opening three games before notching its first points a week earlier against Lowell, came back with an impressive 16-play, 68-yard drive for its only TD in this contest.

The Hillies ate up the rest of the third period (Andover ran off just six plays) on the ground, short rushes by Grant, Ferrhnte, Jim Carven and 205-pound fullback Eric Tracy moving the ball steadily downfield.

Grant made one key fourth-down conversion on a QB sneak, and Carven eventually sliced across from the four on the first play of the fourth quarter.

Trailing 7-6, Haverhill went for the two-point conversion and the lead. Carven cradled a pitch-out and circled left, but Chris Madden stuck him first and Perry came in later as the pair made the key stop at the one yard line.

Breaking It Open

Andover scored on its final three possessions to break the game wide open, two big defensive plays by Perry helping turn the game into a rout.

Following the Hillies' TD, Steve Redgate returned the kickoff 23 yards to the Andover 39.

Shane Smith bulled four yards, but Perry was thrown for a seven yard loss back at the 36.

Perry then rolled left and hit Chris Madden at the Haverhill 33, the senior end making a nice grab at the sideline.

Three plays later a pass to Doug Clements at the visitors' eight just missed connections, once again a hard hit by the Haverhill cornerback forcing the incompletion.

That forced a fourth-and-9 situation which resulted in a clutch 19-yard pass completion to Redgate at the Hillies' 13. Perry rolled left on the play and stopped, double-pumping before firing the ball to secondary receiver Redgate.

Redgate reeled off a nine-yard run, and then

Warriors

Smith crashed off left tackle for the touchdown. Hammond, Rossbach and Carpentier teamed again for a 14-6 Andover edge with less than seven minutes remaining.

Three plays after the kickoff Haverhill was on the march, moving to the Andover 37 where Perry produced his major ball theft.

The Warriors proceeded to march 62 yards in seven plays, Redgate the star of the drive with runs of eight, 12, seven, 18 and 16 yards.

The sophomore flash eventually dove over from the two, Hammond booted the conversion, and Andover had a comfortable 21-6 edge with 2:03 to play.

Three plays after Bourdelais' kickoff AHS was back in business, Perry intercepting a Grant pass at the Warriors' 49 and returning the ball 33 yards to the Haverhill 18.

The final touchdown came on a 19-yard Perry burst straight up the middle, and Hammond's ninth conversion of the year capped the offense.

Statistics

Andover finished with statistical edges in yards rushing (163-144), yards passing (119-63) and total yardage from scrimmage (282-207).

Haverhill led in first downs (11-10) and scrimmage plays (54-48).

Andover Girls Still Unbeaten

The Andover High girls' soccer team remained undefeated as they knocked off second-place Masconomet 3-2 in a very well played game last Thursday.

Torrie Fitzpatrick scored with just 1:45 remaining to break the tie for the win. She has now scored in all seven games this year, increasing her league-leading total.

Andover's Lisa Marcella scored two goals and assisted on Fitzpatrick's game-winner.

Masconomet's Emily Brown had a goal and assisted Kendall Daly's goal which tied up the game early in the fourth period.

On Tuesday, the Warrior girls rolled to their eighth straight victory with a 10-0 win over Newburyport.

Cheryl Crawford, a sophomore, was the shutout goalie for Andover, with Devra Wiseman, Julie Kittleson and Kara Oliver turning in top defensive work.

Boys Soccer Downs Chelmsford

By She Livermore

The Warriors had two tough games last week but they prevailed winning both and now lead the M.V.C. Large School Division with a 9-2-1 record.

In a rematch with Wilmington on Tuesday, the team that handed them their first defeat, Andover avenged the earlier loss by overcoming Wilmington 4-3.

The Warriors came on strong in the second half Friday during Homecoming, to defeat Chelmsford, their rival for top spot in the M.V.C. league standings, 3-0.

Andover 4 - Wilmington 3

The Warriors suffered their first loss of the season at the hands of Wilmington so were well prepared for the rematch, although their victory was very close.

Paul Hevehan put the warriors in the lead early in the game. High scoring David Keene broke away from a crowd in midfield, took the ball forward and passed it to Hevehan who blasted it into the net.

David Doyle made it 2-0 about 15 minutes later. Barry Tucker passed the ball forward to Hevehan from his center fullback position. Hevehan carried it and then passed it across to Keene who kicked it towards the Wilmington goal. Doyle rushed in, put his head on the ball and headed it in over the keeper's outstretched hands.

Three minutes before the end of the half, Wilmington made it 2-1 following a direct kick.

Wilmington tied it up early in the second half, following a defensive miscue.

Tucker put the Warriors in the lead again when he scored on a direct kick which saw the all slip through the keeper's legs.

Chris Sapuppo made it 4-2 when he blasted a direct kick right on target which the keeper tried to block, but he misjudged its impact and it slipped through his hands.

Wilmington pressed the attack and made an excellent shot on net which keeper Cronin managed to punch to the side where a Wilmington forward trapped it and immediately sent it back in front of the net to a teammate who tapped it in.

Wilmington continued their attack, looking for the equalizer, but the defense stood firm, clearing the all to preserve the narrow victory for Andover.

Goalkeeper Brian Cronin made an excellent save early in the second half when he punched the ball heading into the net to the side. It returned within seconds, again right on target, and Cronin quickly pushed it up and over the net.

Co-Captains John Drake and Jeff Kennedy stood out in the field.

Andover 3 - Chelmsford 0

Both teams were very much aware of the fact that the winner of this game would retain sole possession of first place in the M.V.C. league standings (large school division).

The first half was scoreless although both teams made several attempts to get on the scoreboard.

Chelmsford had the sun in its favor all through the first half and made 14 shots on net while the Warriors made 10.

At one point, the Warriors faked the keeper, bringing him out from the net and made a perfect shot, only to have a defender block it, at one point using his hands. Unfortunately, a penalty shot was not awarded.

The Warriors took command in the second half. Within minutes Nick Bates made a long throw-in to high scoring Keene whose perfect shot, on the run, was grabbed by the Chelmsford keeper before it could go into his net.

About 20 minutes into the half, Chris Sapuppo made a corner kick which landed in front of the crowded goal area. The ball was cleared out and arrived at the feet of Glenn Livermore who took a couple of steps and then drilled a long shot which went sailing into the upper right hand corner of the net to give the Warriors a 1-0 lead.

Five minutes later Barry Tucker made a direct kick towards the goal which Scott Wilkins headed in to make it 2-0.

Towards the end of the contest, David Casanova made it 3-0 when he kicked in the ball following a great corner kick by Keene.

The Warriors made 22 shot on net in the second half, compared with nine shots by Chelmsford.

Goalkeeper David Bartle earned the shutout. Bruce Crawford and Drake played outstanding games in defense while Kennedy and Mike Hardock did well in the field. Homecoming Week was a definite factor as Andover played

Andover Junior Football

The Bancroft Dolphins, defending champs, remained undefeated 4-0 and unscored upon, 73 points for and zero against, by beating the winless Colts 12-0 in junior football action Sunday.

Touchdowns were registered by Rob Benedetto, who reeled off a 60-yard run on the first play from scrimmage, and David Tucker who bulled his way in from the one-yard line in the second quarter. Also playing on offense for the Dolphins were Adam Galvin, Chad Livingston, Jason McCue and Curt Solomon. Defensively, Matt Cinelli, Chris Hart, Brian Duffy and Eric Milne all had big games for the winners.

The Colts, even though they came up on the short end of the score, played, by far, their best all-around game of the season. On offense they were led by inspired performances from Brian Donellan, Bill Batchelder, Randy Ying, Peter Reming, Matt Grant, Kyle Murphy, Brian Novelline, Stefan Foder and Jarrod Martemucci. With the exception of the Dolphins' first touchdown, which was scored when due to a mixup the Colts only had 10 players on the field, the Colt defense held the high-scoring Dolphins to one hard-earned touchdown. Spearheading their tough defense were John Thompson, Dan Waitkevitch, Sean Spires and Duke McNamara.

The Indian Ridge Raiders continued their winning ways by shutting out the Redskins 20-0, raising their record to 3-1. Scoring was done by end Bob Lowry on a 55-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Joe Iarrobino with only two plays left in the first half. Iarrobino then rushed for the extra point to make it 7-0. In the third quarter halfback Jeff Foley scampered 51 yard for the second touchdown to up the score to 13-0. its best game of the season, completely dominating a very fine Chelmsford team," said Coach Dave Amundsen immediately after his team's victory over Chelmsford.

"The goal by Glenn Livermore showed excellent poise in putting the ball on net which Andover was not able to do in the first half.

"The two follow-up goals totally demoralized Chelmsford and they were not able to mount any further attacks, but it was consistent team work and hustle from all the team members that set up the scoring opportunities," concluded Amundsen.

Amundsen told his team that if they "could continue to play the same way in every game, they would not have to look back to anyone in the entire league."

Strikers Capture Second Place

By She Livermore

Four teams from Andover competed in the second North Andover Annual Soccer tournament held over Columbus Day weekend: the Cyclones, an Under 12 Girls team; the Lightning, an Under 12 boys team; the Raiders, an Under 14 Boys team; and the Strikers, an Under 14 Girls team, who ultimately captured second place. All of the Andover entries reached the semifinals.

The Cyclones' first test was against a Billerica contingent, whom they defeated 2-1 with goals by Bridget Guerrero and Lisa Allen; Karen Brocklesby assisted Guerrero. Outstanding in the field were Darlene Prochniak, Laura Hammer and Brocklesby. They then played the Dedham Rising Stars to a 1-1 tie with Jennifer Butt scoring the goal on a penalty kick and Heather Bryce, Shannon McGovern and Karen Ragonese turning in fine performances.

On the second day, the Cyclones played to another 1-1 draw with the Peabody Super stars with Hammer kicking in the one goal; Maura Everett, Guerrero and Hammer played well. Their final competition that day was Easton, whom they defeated 1-0; Allen scored the goal with the assist going to Butt and Anne Murnane was outstanding in the field.

Their accumulated points sent the Cyclones into the semifinal round on Columbus Day and Easton avenged its earlier loss by defeating them 1-0. The entire team gave it their all, making numerous attempts to beat the keeper and score, to no avail. The Cyclones had to settle for a tie for third place with a North Andover contingent.

Seven teams from North Andover (2), Billerica, Concord, Hudson, Wellesley and Winchester competed in the Under 12 Boys Division along with the Andover Lightning. The Lightning's first match was with a North Andover entry who defeated them 3-1. Mike Costello scored Andover's goal on a pass from Peter Arthur and Sanjiv Sheel, Ryan Cassily and Jeff Hamilton stood out in the field. Their second match was against Dedham whom they defeated 2-0. Duncan Harris and Colin Nix kicked in the goals on passes from Steve Sintros and Jeff Hamilton. Goalkeeper Ryan Beal did an outstanding job earning the shutout and Phillip Meckel and Brad Cronin played well in the field.

The Lightning defeated an entry from Hudson 2-1 the next day, with Brad Cronin scoring both goals, one on a penalty kick. Donald Fraser, Peter Dennett and Mike Henry played very well. They then went on to defeat the second North Andover contingent 2-1. Costello and Arthur kicked in the goals with Mike Hagerty assisting the latter. Eddie McKertich, Jamie Damon and Duncan Harris turned in fine performances.

In the semifinal round, the Lightning played Billerica, a team with whom they were tied for second place in the standings by virtue of points accumulated. The first half was scoreless with the Lightning making many good attempts to get the ball by Billerica's keeper who seemed always to be in the right place at the right time. They kept up the pressure in the second half with similar success and ultimately Billerica penetrated their defense and made a beautiful shot over the keeper's outstretched hands to win the narrow 1-0 victory. Outstanding in the field in the Lightning's final game were Henry, Cassily, Hamilton and Sheel.

The Raiders, Andover's Under 14 Boys entry in the tournament, first competed against the North Andover Falcons and defeated them 4-0.

Boutin; Spinelli earned assists on two of the tallies and Mark Angelos on one. BOW: Aram Krauson, Scott Clementi, George Willard and Chris Adams.

In a makeup game with Billerica, Chris Eggert headed in the Raiders first tally off a perfect corner kick by Todd Musterait. ## PeeWee B's Start Season

By Ed Owens

After a gruelling parity round, the PeeWee B's season officially got underway. The first few weeks of the rounds saw Andover lose tough decisions against powerhouses like Revere, Everett and Billerica. But, something which has become a trademark of Andover, their courage, came through and they beat a tough and determined North Andover team.

In a game that saw the lead change hands numerous times, it came down to the final two minutes when Andover went into the lead 6-5 and was able to hold off the onslaught.

This game had special meaning because the team took it upon themselves to dedicate the game to their friend and teammate, Jay Coburn, who is in the hospital recovering from injuries he received in an accident. We all wish him a speedy recovery.

Andover Hockey Association

Playing in the final parity game of the Danvers League, Andover had to settle for a tie in a game it could have easily won.

Backed by outstanding goaltending by Freddie Sunderland who played the first two periods and gave up only one goal on a screened shot, Andover clearly outshot Triton. Winger Andy Novelline, whose contribution as a team player is becoming more evident each game, led defense.

Triton scored late in the first period only to have center Steve Neal tie it up on a nice lead pass from defenseman Justin Hesenius before the period concluded.

Three minutes into the second stanza Dan

Trede put a beautiful pass from the corner on Novelline's stick and he whipped it past the surprised goalie for a 2-1 lead. After many narrow misses by Andover, Novelline notched his second goal when linemates Moynihan and Norton set him up in front of the Triton net. Despite constant Andover pressure the score remained 3-1 into the middle of the last period. Triton managed to score on one good rush and then tied it up on a screen shot.

After the game Andover found out that they had been seeded in the extremely tough Division 1 grouping of the Danvers League and will face strong opposition all season.

Ryan Sets Hoop Clinics

Lowell High varsity basketball coach Charlie Ryan has come up with a unique idea, organizing a series of hoop clinics at the LHS Ray Riddick Fieldhouse October 27 through November 24.

"All basketball clinics and schools are held in the summer," explained Ryan. "I don't know why no one has thought of running clinics just prior to the start of the actual season. It's a unique fall readiness program geared for younger players (no varsity players will be accepted)."

Ryan's "Super Saturday Clinics," for all area boys age 9-15 years, will run from 12 noon to 4 p.m. Oct. 27, Nov. 3, 10, 17 and 24.

The Super Saturday Clinics will stress fundamentals and individualized instruction with players grouped according to age and ability. Most of the competition will be 3-on-3, giving each player a greater opportunity to handle the ball, and there will be a 1-on-1 tournament, a foul-shooting contest, a "Slam Dunk" contest, full player evaluations and awards presentations.

Tuition fee is $50 and a $25 non-refundable deposit must accompany the registration form.

For further information, contact Ryan at 475-4654 (home) or 454-5431, Ext. 209 (school).

Day Care

dren have instead become providers themselves, she says, because it's one way to stay home and earn an income as well.

On the community education front, CCC is currently assessing day care needs among the employees of a local company; after surveying employees, the service will analyze the results and make a recommendation to the employer. (The Circuit is charging a fee for this service, as well as for the workshops for providers.)

Why would parents call Child Care Circuit, instead of simply consulting a list of providers licensed by the Office for Children?

In addition to the counseling the Circuit's volunteers can offer, the service has information that is often more up-to-date than state listings, Ms. Zammuto says. "It facilitates the search tremendously, to have the information centralized here."

The Circuit's had a great deal of "nice positive feedback from providers," she says, who are quickly spreading the word. (Already providers are calling the service to report when they have openings for new children.)

Ms. Balboni says she senses that parents who turn to CCC "are just so happy to be able to talk to someone about their needs. We've heard (usually through providers) that we've made good referrals that have worked out very well for people."

It's important to realize that "it doesn't stop once you've found a provider," Ms. Zammuto says. "Evaluation and parental involvement is an ongoing process."

Parents should visit and observe a day care program (and don't be put off if the provider seems to be ignoring you, Marlies says: "She's doing her job, being with the kids." Schedule a private interview for another time.)

Look at the space, health and safety features (are cupboard doors locked? cleaning supplies hidden away? are there pets?), the activities offered, the relationship between children and adults.

For their part, parents should look upon their contract with a provider as a professional relationship. (An amazing number of parents forget to bring their checkbooks on payday, Marlies notes.) Be on time; call when your child won't be coming; send along diapers, coats and other supplies; notify the provider when someone else will be picking up your child.

"Caregivers are providing an essential community service," Ms. Zammuto points out. "It's a very important job and very demanding. They deserve respect as professionals."

It's also important that parents in search of child care "appreciate the complexities of the choice," Ms. Balboni adds. "Take time, think it through carefully. It's not an easily-made decision." If necessary, she advises parents to find temporary care while they consider a permanent placement.

"Bring the child at least once to a program to see how the provider and child respond to each other," Marlies suggests. "And don't make choices over the phone — even if you decide to go with the first one you call, at least go and see several programs, so you'll have some perspective."

But with the demand for child care outstripping the supply, parents may not always find alternatives to choose from.

"There may be just one possibility for you," Sheila says. "That's the sad thing. That's why we want to help people develop new day care programs — so parents will have more choices."

Editor's Note: Child Care Circuit may be contacted at P.O. Box 42, Ballardvale Station, Andover, 01810; or telephone 475-3602.

project. He said work on the site may begin in the spring and will take at least a year to complete. The site work will be done by Sturdy Oak Construction Inc., a McNeil company.

Before the town can begin work on the Riverina Road sewage pumping station they must have a variance from the Appeals Board because the land on which the station is to be located is not big enough, according to town by-laws. The station, which will be built across the Shawsheen River from Riverina Road on Tanton Road, will be located on land in the town's Industrial A District.

Work on the project, not yet put out to bid by the town, may begin as early as December or January, according to Town Manager Kenneth Mahoney. At least $2 million of the $6.7 million project is scheduled to come from a state matching grant.

The Zoning Board will also hear a request from the Cyr Oil Company, of Lawrence, to replace the existing "Texaco" sign at the Village Annex Texaco, 14 North Main St., with a smaller sign. Cyr needs a special permit from the board to make the change.

Developers from Wyncrest Development Corp., 108 Dascomb Road, will request an extension on a decision made by the board at its October 1983 meeting to allow them to build a single family home on Pine Street, a private way. Because Wyncrest didn't build the home in the last year they need an extension on last year's decision.

A special permit will be requested by Joseph and May Bernard, 459 South Main St., who are want to add a second story to their home. And the Rolling Green Motor Inn, 311 Lowell St., will ask the board for a special permit to allow them to install a television dish antenna to receive satellite television signals.

The board will also hear a request from Janet and Albert Cole, 49 Pine St., who need a variance to build a sun deck on their home. John and Elizabeth Webb, 19 Smithshire Estates will request a variance for the screened porch they have on their home which does not meet the minimum bylaw requirements for land at the side of their home.

Wine Shop

Earlier Monday night, the board also unanimously approved a transfer of a corporation's retail package good all-alcoholic beverage license. The license, previously held by Plaza West Beverages Corp. at 211 North Main St., rear, in Shawsheen Plaza, will be transferred to Wine Seller, Inc.

North Andover Atty. Anthony Copani said that Wine Seller, Inc. consists of William Burliss of North Andover, who has "an unblemished record" as owner and operator of the Den Rock liquor store in North Andover.

Burliss told the board that he intended to emphasize the sale of wine and beer, although he will sell liquor as well.

Plaza West Beverages has been owned and operated by the late Philip Pizzano and his wife, Ida Pizzano, of Andover; Mrs. Pizzano will sell the store to Wine Seller, Inc., Copani said.

Defensively the Raider defense was led by Dennis Grogan, Paul Mondello, Tim Lane, Will Lowry, Dave Lucey and Steve Flagg.

Playing well for the Redskins, whose record dipped to 1-3, were Eric Greenstein, Mark Avery, Paul Durant, Tim Parker, Ryan Kelley, Tim Krabec, Scott Buchanan, Andy Peck, Adam Ruma, Peter Cookson and Sean Ryan who came up with a key pass interception and nice run-back.

Parking

quired new spaces in an off-site lot, probably located outside the Central Business District.

Expanding businesses could use any of those options in any combination, Jeton said.

The fee-in-lieu-of-space alternative is intended to help businesses — particularly smaller businesses — that may not have enough space to provide on-site parking, or may not be able to use the other options. "The town's in a better position than some private people to put together new parking areas," she explained.

Chairman Bradshaw said the parking fund idea was suggested by a number of people last year, and seemed worth exploring. "It gives us some flexibility," she said. "I don't think it's an open-ended way of expanding, but at least it gives the town money to maintain and expand the parking we have. It gives the town more options."

But, as Jeton noted, a question then arises: Where will the town find land to build new parking lots? "That's a question that troubles all of us," the planner said. "It might be a little tight finding space, and space that's in the right location, too."

It's difficult to assess the potential for new parking areas at the moment, she said, because downtown Andover is "in a state of flux": parking lots at the new town offices aren't finished yet, "which puts more pressure on Punchard, Bartlet and Chestnut streets," for example. A new retail mall on Park Street, meters in the old Heartland Jr. lot, and renovations at Memorial Hall Library will all change the CBD parking picture before long, she added.

But "there is still space in the general business district to acquire and develop as parking," Jeton maintained. "It's going to be outlying space, though — satellite space."

All-day parkers — Boston-bound bus commuters and employees of downtown businesses — may eventually be parking in satellite lots, she said.

(Town officials are negotiating with Trombly Bus Co. to change bus routes so that commuters can park in a park-and-ride lot on Dascomb Road, for instance; or at a town lot off Essex Street, near the railroad station, instead of in the town lot near Olde Andover Village.)

As for the old loopholes: the revised bylaw would eliminate two provisions in the zoning bylaw — Sections VI.A.5.a.(4) and (7)(a) — that now allow businesses to complete major expansions without providing any new parking. Those 20-year-old provisions are "outdated and not needed anymore," Jeton said. "They're serving as a detriment."

In the interest of protecting small businesses, however, one "loophole" will remain — businesses may expand enough to require six new parking spaces without actually providing those spaces.

A final aspect of the proposed parking revisions, and one that the planners expect to draw some criticism, would create a new table of off-street parking requirements.

Sample changes: instead of four spaces for each doctor or dentist, medical or health centers would have to provide eight spaces; restaurants would have to provide 1.5 spaces for each two seats, instead of one space for each three seats; business offices would have to provide one space for each 200 square feet of useable floor space, instead of each 450 square feet.

The planners hope to "come to some consensus" on those numbers during their upcoming public forums, Jeton said, so that by the time town meeting convenes, they'll be ready to "present something that makes good sense."

The CBD subcommittee surveyed six towns similar to Andover (Concord, Lexington, Hingham, Wellesley, Winchester and Marblehead), and found no consistency, but a range of off-street parking requirements, she noted.

Copies of the proposal are available at Jeton's office on the first floor of the town office building on Bartlet Street. The first discussion of the draft plan will begin at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 13, in the third-floor conference room of the office building.

While there might be "some room for debate" on parts of the planning board's latest parking proposal, "the concept is sound," Bradshaw said. "The approach is comprehensive."

"This is still a working document," the chairman emphasized. "We want to hear what people have to say about it. We're looking to hear from businesses and citizens as well — we're really looking for input at this point."

The planning board's CBD Subcommittee includes board members Paul Curley and Michael Houghton, Richard Chapell of Andover Photo, Stephen Stapinski of Merrimack Engineering Services, Andover Atty. Peter Caruso, and Margaret Cronin of the League of Women Voters; Andover architect Richard Landry has also worked with the subcommittee.

At 1984 town meeting, the planners recommended deleting two sections from the parking bylaw (the same two "loophole" sections addressed in the current plan) to put a freeze on the existing parking situation (Articles 44 and 45). The planners withdrew Article 45 after Article 44 was defeated.

And at 1983 town meeting, in Article 47, the planning board asked voters to delete one of the same loopholes, offered in Section VI.A.5(7)(a). That article was also defeated.

Registration For High School Nursery Set

Parents who have filed applications for their children to participate in this year's Andover High School nursery should call program coordinator Pat Korandanis to arrange an appointment to register their youngsters. Only those parents who have already applied will be able to register their children in the program.

If spaces remain after the first registration they will be filled on a first-come first-served basis. Parents interested in registering should apply at the high school, on Shawsheen Road, after next Wednesday, Oct. 24.

work-study and student activity programs.

Loomis, his wife Betsy, a social worker in a drug and alcohol center in a New York hospital, and their 15-month old daughter Kate, hope to settle in Andover. The high school principal likened Andover to the Fayetteville-Manlius school district where, he said, the two towns are the most affluent of the many suburbs that surround Syracuse. Loomis and his family live in Cazenovia.

Seifert said he wasn't sure where Loomis' office, will be located in the central school administration office. The office space in the new administration building was designed two and one half years ago before there were two assistant superintendents, said Seifert.

Loomis' counterpart, Lois Haslam, was appointed assistant superintendent for elementary education on July 10. A former Bancroft School principal, Haslam makes $45,000 a year. She had held the job in an acting capacity since December.

The idea to split the assistant superintendent's position came after Charles Mitsakos, then assistant superintendent, left Andover last December. When budget cuts eliminated program advisors in the town's schools a reorganization plan, created by Seifert, for administration of the town's schools included implementation of two assistant superintendents instead of one.

Richard McGrail was acting assistant superintendent for secondary schools from last December through the end of the school year. He did not apply for the secondary post and is now back in his job as principal of Doherty Junior High School.

For Those Of Us Who Are Older

Registrations are now being accepted for the next government cheese, butter and powdered milk distribution. Date of distribution is November 20, and deadline for registration is October 30. Even if you have registered for previous distributions, you must re-register. You may do it by phone, simply by calling the senior center and giving them the information they need. There is no charge for these commodities.

Time is growing short for you to get your tickets to the October 27 Oktoberfest at the senior center. There are still some tickets left for this delightful German-type festival. Good food, good music and good entertainment and all for $6.

There are still a few seats left for the Thursday, Oct. 25, trip to Dimitri's Red Snapper Restaurant for a delightful baked chicken dinner followed by super entertainment by Dennis Day. Remember Dennis with Jack Benny? You'll enjoy lots of laughs plus Dennis' lovely tenor voice. And all for $20.

And, while you're in the theater mood, how about "Mame" at the Giordano's Starlight Room, a terraced room affording excellent viewing, coupled with an "all you can eat" buffet of turkey and roast beef, etc. and all for only $17! It should be great fun. Try it! November 18, leaving at 10:45 a.m.

And while we're in the party mood, you need to know that there will be a Halloween Party at the center. Facilities are limited, so you must make reservations, although it will be free. October 31 at 1 p.m. It is bound to be a great time.

For those of you who missed the flu clinic, there will be a make-up clinic on Wednesday, Oct. 24, from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. at the senior center. Just come.

You don't need an appointment unless you plan to get a pneumonia shot, too. For that you need to call the health department in advance and be prepared to pay $5. The flu shot is free.

tant Superintendent Edward Regan after it failed to re-elect him to that position last spring. It also said that Regan no longer has tenure as a principal here. In a letter read to the Andover School Committee Tuesday night, Austin Broadhurst, legal counsel for MASC, said that by accepting his election as assistant superintendent in 1973, Regan had "ceased to have rights" as a principal.

Commuter rail service may not be at an end in the area and there is a possibility that the once-a-day train may still stop in Andover. The Andover Board of Selectmen have scheduled a discussion of the matter for next Monday night's meeting.

By the end of the decade, cars will be reshaped by advanced aerodynamic principles.

But you don't have to wait.

From Audi's German engineers: the 5000S sedan.

Audi While the sleek, aerodynamic designs of other car makers are still in early prototype stages, this stunning luxury sedan from Audi's German engineers is in production and available now.

The Most Aerodynamic Luxury Sedan America Has Ever Driven. Refined in European wind tunnels, the Audi 5000S slices through air with an ease and agility that are outstanding for a luxury sedan.

So "air slippery" is the design, that tracking and directional control are maintained even in severe crosswinds. Acceleration to 50 mph is accomplished in 8.0 exhilarating seconds. Handling and cornering are close to what you would expect from exotic sports cars—the result of advanced front-wheel drive technology and a performance-tuned suspension.

Inside the sumptuous interior an almost eerie quiet prevails. Gracefully curved windows mounted flush with the roofline all but eliminate wind noise.

Superior Quality Backed By A Superior Warranty. To insure the quality of the 5000S, we tested it over 3.2 million kilometers in Europe, Africa and North America. So dependable is this automobile, we've covered it with an outstanding 24-month/limited warranty with unlimited mileage. See your dealer for details and a test drive.

BUSINESS PROFILES

Gallery Upholstering And Interior Decorating

Give your furniture new life! If re-decorating is your way of chasing away the winter blues, don't replace that old sofa or chair with expensive new ones. Call Bob Silveira at Gallery Upholstering and Interior Decorating at 689-0454 for a free estimate and a no obligations appointment about reupholstering your furniture.

A professional, top quality reupholstering can give your furniture the new look for which you've been looking as well as extend your furniture's life. Choose from a host of popular colors in the latest fabrics in such a variety of combinations that there is sure to be something to match your decor.

Many of the finest homes, businesses and restaurants in the North Shore area have come to depend upon the courteous, professional service available from Gallery Upholstering's nine skilled craftsmen. Gallery Upholstering also does commercial and institutional decorating bids and specializes in fire estimates as well as evaluations of any damage suffered in moving furniture.

Bob Silveira believes in the quality of older furniture. "Most new furniture lacks the structural quality that makes older pieces last and last."

And Bob maintains that quality by hand cutting, hand stitching and hand matching patterns to produce a better quality piece than furniture which is manufactured by piece work on a machine.

With many years of experience, Mr. Silveira makes it his business to produce top quality reupholstering. He started in the upholstering business at the age of 13 and then continued his education at Lowell Technical Institute where he learned about fabrics and fiber construction. After majoring in interior design at the Pratt Institute of Design in New York, Bob became an interior decorator and consultant for Gilchrist Department Store in Boston. He opened Gallery Upholstering after spending 12 years in association with Pride Upholstering. Now he puts all those years of experience to work for you.

When you're ready to give your furniture (or entire room) a new look, call the professionals. Call Gallery Upholstering for a convenient, no obligation appointment at 689-0454.

BUY CAKE NOT FROSTING

Would it make sense to marry a lady because you like the shape of her nose - but everything else about her was completely unsuitable? If you did, chances are you would end up with a pretty nose and a lot of unhappiness.

Yet this is one of the common mistakes that a househunter can make. All too often, a family will fall in love with an eye-catching feature, such as a rock garden, a chandelier, a built-in radar oven or a fancy fireplace and end up buying the wrong house. This mistake happens frequently and in all price ranges. You have to resist the temptation of paying too much attention to a frill and forgetting the importance of the overall house, location and price.

Yielding to superficial attractions like these can result in your family winding up with a thoroughly unsuitable house. Bear in mind that these same, alluring features can usually be added to another house at a relatively small cost, considering the amount of the overall purchase. Buy the house - not the frosting.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at THE HOWE AGENCY, 4 Ponchartr Ave., Andover. Phone: 475-5100. We're here to help.

Lou Patracone

SPECIAL FEATURES

One home builder in the Chicago area is putting up a unique condominium development. Each home comes with an airplane hangar, and the right to use the adjoining airstrip for private planes.

Your home probably isn't that unusual. But certain special features make it a little different from the house next door, features that will appeal to a special kind of buyer. Perhaps you've got a fireplace. Or a gourmet kitchen. Or central air-conditioning. North light for an artist's studio, or space for a vegetable garden.

What's important is matching those features with a buyer who wants them - and that's where we come in. Before we show, we qualify the prospect's needs and abilities carefully. We find out what he really wants in a home, and what he can afford. Only then do we bring him to see your house.

To match your house with the right buyer, list with

Ten Sites Being Considered For New Postal Facility

By Susan Rand

There are ten sites in Andover where a main post office could be built, according to a preliminary study by R.M. Bradley and Co. Inc., of Boston, that was commissioned by the United State Post Office.

Back in June postal officials decided on three or four parcels in town for a possible post office after a site search by postal administrators. That first study has been superseded by the R.M. Bradley search for land on which to build a new main post office. The 17,000 square foot main building, located at 71 Main St., is too small for the work involved in running the town's mail operation and as a result much of the sorting tasks have been moved to Lawrence.

Stephen G. Kasnet, executive vice-president at R.M. Bradley, said some of the ten sites, all of which he declined to identify, were not in locations that his real estate company could recommend. Others, he said, "are in excellent locations."

Kasnet said that by disclosing the land under consideration he might jeopardize his company's purchase of an option on any of the land at a later date. The next step in the study, he explained, is to review the material with postal officials who work on land acquisition in Lexington. They will ask for recommendations on two or three sites and "probably ask us to purchase an option," Kasnet said. The decision of which sites to option, the first step in reserving land for purchase, should come in about 30 days, said Kasnet.

But a final decision on a parcel of land isn't expected until the end of the year, Kasnet said.

This summer there was talk of using the old town building, on Main Street, for the new post office but that plan was judged "remote" last month by Town Manager Kenneth Mahoney.
